Odors And Baths Are Discussed By Board Of Health

A regular meeting of the board of health was held Tuesday evening in the city hall, Mayor Carey presiding, and various reports were given by officials of the board, as printed elsewhere in The Freeman.

Besides the statistics presented, Plumbing Inspector Charles Gregory reported having inspected a number of residences which were troubled with bad odors coming from defective plumbing work. In some cases he found no vent pipes nor fresh air inlets. These faults were remedied, overcoming the disagreeable smells.

Mr Gregory stressed the fact that in all of the cases inspected, the plumbing work had been done by tradesmen without licenses.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, said the city apparently was in a very healthful condition, and that the various clinics being conducted by the board of health were well attended. He called attention to the fact that no more infantile paralysis cases have come to the attention of the board since the one discovered some time ago.

Dr. Frederic Holcomb, health commissioner, discussed the question of children bathing in the pool at Academy Park, which was originally intended for an ornament, later was used for wading by the little ones, who finally made a swimming place out of it. Reason for bringing up the matter was to learn whether the pool was fit for bathing, in regards to the changing of water.

Mayor Carey, answering Dr. Holcomb, said the water was changed every hour, new inlets and outlets having been installed prior to the spell of weather during which the children enjoyed bathing in the pool.

Plumbing Inspector Gregory also spoke on the matter, explaining in detail the process of changing the water. He said that if the water was allowed to run into the pool at a more rapid rate, the temperature would be too cool for the children.

Mayor Carey asked the opinion of the board concerning the elimination of the midweek collection of garbage, explaining that by doing away with the collection for the winter months the city could save approximately $4,600. He added that the picking up of waste matter during the time specified was practically unnecessary as a checkup showed many residents did not have their containers out for removal. The mayor suggested that the midweek collection be abandoned between October and April, making provision to pick up garbage at the hotels and such places where it might be necessary.

The board of health went on record as in favor of the movement, which likely will be put into effect by the Board of Public Works.

Prior to adjourning the board on motion of Commissioner Mrs. T. J. Hickey voted to send a telegram of congratulations to Dr. Joseph Jacobson who was scheduled to be married and sail on the S. S. Bremen for Europe today.

ARRESTED AFTER COLLISION AT BROADWAY AND ALBANY AVE.

As the result of an automobile collision at the intersection of Broadway and Albany avenue Tuesday night about 11 o'clock, William Whitaker of 17 Liberty street is being held on a charge of driving while intoxicated and John Bishop, who was riding with him, on a charge of public intoxication.

Whitaker, whose car collided with that of Mrs. Clarence Kelly of 144 St. James street, was arrested by Charles Roosa and turned over to the police. Bishop was arrested by Officer Walter McDonough. When arraigned in police court this morning Whitaker had his hearing adjourned until Saturday and Bishop to Thursday morning. Both gave bail for their appearance.

Mrs. Kelly was injured in the accident, receiving abrasions on the left elbow, as were two other women, Estelle Carpenter of 144 St. James street, who sustained possible fractures of the ribs, contusions and abrasions on the left leg; and Caroline Sullivan, who was hurt about the back.

Treatment was given to the injured at the Kingston Hospital and they were released after receiving it.

Bonus Demand Before Legion

Portland, Ore., Sept. 14 (AP)—The major issues before the American Legion convention—a committee-favored demand for payment of the bonus and a contested proposal to censure President Hoover—neared final tests today in the annual national meeting of the service men's organization here.

The bonus resolution was to have endorsement of a majority of the legislative committee, but committeemen said this majority opposed censuring the President for the use of troops in ousting the B. E. F. from Washington.

Contradicting the announcement of determined opponents of the bonus payment, national headquarters said "no" debate is expected on that resolution. Sam Reynolds, Nebraska's candidate for national commander, has promised to lead what he admits is a losing fight on the floor against bonus sentiment in an effort to effect a compromise.

Delay in reporting by the resolutions committee was the result of a one man fight for the resolution criticizing the President. George Brown, Pennsylvania member of the committee, refused to be swayed from his determination to force a floor debate on the B. E. F. after an hour's debate in executive session of the committee last night.

The result likely will be two minority reports, one by Reynolds on the bonus, the other by Brown on the B. E. F.

The legislative sub-committee of the resolutions group was called into a caucus at the same time the convention resumed to try to formulate a stand on the liquor question.

Maine Result Shows Need For Activity

Washington, Sept. 14 (AP)—Eight weeks of renewed and more intense campaigning was today's Republican program after the Democratic successes in Maine.

President Hoover's own caution to party workers from the top down was:

"The result of the election in Maine imposes need for renewed and stronger effort that the people may fully understand the issues at stake."

His running-mate, Vice President Curtis, said:

"We are greatly disappointed. It will only make us work the harder and we will carry the state (Maine) in November."

Mr. Hoover's views on the Maine results which saw a Democratic governor elected for the first time in 18 years, were given in a telegram to Chairman Sanders of the Republican National Committee. This message was made public at the White House after extensive conferences between the President and two of his chief advisors, Secretary Mills and Postmaster General Brown, who later joined in predicting a high-speed campaign for the next two months.

The President's telegram was in reply to one from Sanders on the Maine election which said he was "disappointed in the vote but not greatly disturbed." Curtis' statement was made to newspapermen.

Doumer Assassin Dies On Scaffold

Paris, Sept. 14 (AP)—France exacted the supreme penalty today for the slaying of her venerable president, Paul Doumer, by executing on the guillotine Dr. Paul Gorguloff, Russian physician who shot him May 6. Gorguloff was put to death at 5:52 a. m., as he muttered almost incomprehensible references to his "idea."

He was accompanied to the scaffold by Father Gillet, a priest of the Greek Church who was his spiritual adviser. The priest kissed him just before the guards fastened him on the block under the knife.

Dawn was just breaking. The procedure moved swiftly. Only 40 seconds after Gorguloff stepped down from the prison van, his head rolled into the basket.

A few seconds were lost in adjusting his huge bulk to the block. Only a small crowd saw the execution.

Ostrander Wins More Prizes.

At the flower show of the Dutchess County Horticultural Society, held in Poughkeepsie Tuesday and Wednesday, Walter H. Ostrander won the bronze medal of the American Dahlia Society for the best undisseminated seedling dahlia, a large primrose yellow flushed with orchid. Also won first prize for best basket of dahlias arranged for effect.

Ulster Park Ladies' Aid.

Ulster Park, Sept. 14—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will meet on Friday afternoon, September 16, at the home of Mrs. Richard Barley. This is the first meeting of the fall and will be held at 2:30 D. S. T. A full attendance is desired.

Treasury Balance.

Washington, Sept. 14 (AP)—Treasury receipts for September 12 were $9,790,936.25; expenditures, $16,171,733.69; balance, $267,925,158.53. Customs duties for 12 days of September, $8,59,216.75.

Political Leaders Scan Results Of 8 State Primaries

(By The Associated Press)

Eager for signs of November trends, political leaders scanned results of eight state primaries today, watched Georgia Democrats go to the polls, and pondered still Monday's Democratic victory in Maine's off-season election.

In the absence of inter-party clashes, prohibition's influence as an issue was receiving attention from party chieftains in checking yesterday's primary ballots. In other sections they saw veteran office-holders fighting to hold their jobs.

In the east, Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, and Senator Porter Dale of Vermont, were renamed by Republicans and Senator Ellison D. Smith, four-term veteran, again was named by Democrats in South Carolina over former Senator Cole L. Blease.

Michigan's incomplete returns indicated the renomination of all present incumbents in the House of representatives. Representatives Jesse P. Wolcott and Seymour H. Person, Republicans, apparently had won renomination over Louis E. Cramton and Grant M. Hudson, former members and once leading prohibitionists in the House.

With the backing of Senator Huey P. Long, Representative John H. Overton won the Democratic senatorial nomination in Louisiana from Senator Edwin B. Broussard. Long slate led throughout most of the state.

Early returns in Washington's primary found Senator Wesley L. Jones, sponsor of the Jones "five and ten" prohibition enforcement law, holding a narrow lead for renomination in the Republican primary. He was opposed by Adam Beeler, repeal candidate. The vote was heavy and counting slow.

Colorado Democrats put John T. Barnett into a slight lead over Alva B. Adams in the senatorial race on the face of early returns. Here too a record-breaking vote was recorded. Karl C. Schuyler topped Nate C. Warren in the Republican senatorial contest.

In Arizona, B. B. Moeur took an early lead on Democratic ballots over the veteran George W. P. Hunt for the gubernatorial nomination which is expected to be tantamount to election. J. C. Kinney was ahead in the Republican contest for the same office.

The gubernatorial primary in Michigan gave Governor Wilbur Brucker an increasing margin in the Republican race and William A. Comstock in the Democratic. Michael J. Hart, the state's only Democratic representative in congress, was renamed without opposition.

Vermont Republicans again named Stanley C. Wilson for the governor's chair and Ernest W. Gibson for congress. Gibson favored resubmission of the prohibition question against a repealist opponent.

Across the line in New Hampshire, Democrats selected Fred H. Brown to oppose Senator Moses in November. Representative William N. Rogers, a Democrat, was renominated and will be opposed by William P. Straw, Republican.

Today in the south, Representative Charles R. Crisp, legislative veteran, sought the Democratic senatorial nomination. He was opposed by the youthful Governor Richard B. Russell. Senator Walter F. George was unopposed for renomination in Georgia where the Democratic nomination usually means election.

The Georgia congressional seats also were at stake. Half a dozen contestants sought the gubernatorial nomination. A regional primary in Mississippi found Representative Robert S. Hall leading W. M. Colmer for the Democratic congressional nomination in a run-off contest.

TWO GREENKILL LODGE MEN HALED INTO CITY COURT.

Charles J. Cohen and Isidore B. "Buster" Meltzer, who were hosts to Max Schmeling and his guests at Greenkill Lodge when he trained for his heavyweight title fight with Jack Sharkey, were arrested by Sergeant James V. Simpson and Patrolman Fred Stoudt, of the Kingston Police Department, Tuesday afternoon on charges of grand larceny, second degree.

The officers took the two into custody at Greenkill Lodge on warrants issued by City Judge Bernard A. Culloton. Information for the warrants was furnished by A. H. Gildersleeve, Kingston produce dealer, to whom Cohen and Meltzer are alleged to owe considerable money and have given a bad check.

When arraigned in city court this morning, Cohen and Meltzer had their hearing adjourned until October 14. They were paroled to appear on that date. No bail was asked.

The defendants and Attorney Leran Haver, who appeared for Mr. Gildersleeve, had a conference prior to going to court and prospective arrangements were made to make good the amount owed to the produce dealer.

WEST ALBANY SHOPS TO REOPEN MONDAY

The locomotive department of the West Albany shops of the New York Central Railroad will reopen Monday, employing 1,700 men who have been off the payroll since August 1. Announcement of re-employment of the men was made yesterday by J. G. Parsons, superintendent of the shops. Although Mr. Parsons was unable to predict how long the shops would remain open, he asserted he expected the men would be kept on until the end of the month at least.

Charge Against Ware Dismissed

Grand Jury Requests Dismissal In Action Against Edward Ware—Will Remove From State With His Mother.

When county court convened at 10 o'clock this morning the grand jury made a preliminary report to the court. District Attorney Cleon B. Murray announced to the court that the grand jury desired to file a dismissal in the matter of The People vs. Edward Ware. Ware is one of three lads held in connection with a burglary at the Woodstock Country Club some time ago. The other two persons involved in the matter appeared in Children's Court before Judge Traver.

Mr. Murray explained that the grand jury had been guided in its action requesting a dismissal by reason of the fact that the complaining witness had requested the case against Ware be dropped. He stated that Ware's mother desired to return to Wisconsin where she formerly resided and that she had deposited a bank book as security to have her son released from custody. In order that the bank book, which represented her entire wealth, be released it was necessary that the bail be cancelled and in view of the fact that the complaining witness had requested the matter be dropped and also that young Ware will remove from the state with his mother to Wisconsin the grand jury had recommended a dismissal.

Judge Frederick G. Traver granted the order dismissing the charge and ordered bail cancelled.

The grand jury then retired to resume its work.

Local Death Record

Modena, Sept. 14.—Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Paltridge were held at the home of her son, Harry Paltridge, in Modena Friday afternoon with the Rev. Robert Guice, pastor of the Modena Methodist Church, officiating. Pall bearers were grandsons of the deceased, and interment was made in the Modena Rural Cemetery.

George Lewis died Tuesday at his home on Washington avenue, Saugerties, in the 73rd year of his age. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Sylvain of Saugerties and Mrs. Edward M. R. Lillis of Poughkeepsie and two sisters, the Misses Ada Lewis and Cora Lewis, both of Saugerties. The funeral will be held in Trinity Church, Saugerties, on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Interment will be in Trinity Cemetery, Saugerties.

Memorial services for Mrs. Mary M. Fischang De Golyar, wife of Irving De Golyar, who died Friday, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her home on Glen street. The Rev. W. H. Pretzsch, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, of which Mrs. De Golyar had been a faithful lifelong member, officiated. Condolences expressed in floral offerings and an endless delegation of lifelong friends and neighbors enriched the beauty of the ceremony. It was a tribute entirely worthy of a beautiful soul that has entered the portals of everlasting happiness. Interment was in Wiltwyck cemetery. Paul Struble, John Simmons, Jacob Middagh and Stephen Farkis were pallbearers.

The funeral of Andrew D. Pine, who died at his home in Rosendale Friday, was held from his late residence Tuesday at 2 o'clock and was very largely attended. The profusion of beautiful floral offerings which completely banked the casket, bespoke in a silent manner the high esteem in which the deceased was held by all who knew him. Wednesday evening Cottekill Council, No 268, J. O. U. A. M., called at the home and conducted their ritual. The services at the home Tuesday were conducted by the Rev. George W. Weber, a former pastor of Stone Ridge Church and now of Palenville, N. Y. The cortege, which was exceedingly large, was accompanied to Fairview cemetery at Stone Ridge where Hiawatha Lodge, No. 522, conducted their burial services and the Rev. Mr. Weber conducted the committal services. The bearers were Silas B. Roosa, Rutza Ten Hagen, Daniel Bodley, Harry Snyder, Alfred Terwilliger and Raymond Terwilliger.

PLANE SIGHTED 450 MILES NORTHWEST OF THE AZORES

Ponta Delcada, Azores, Sept. 14 (AP)—The steamship Ashburton reported today that it had sighted an airplane bound east about 450 miles northwest of the Azores at 4:30 a. m. (11:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time Tuesday). It was assumed that this was the "American Nurse" on a non-stop flight from New York to Rome.

Rob Ticket Office

Boston, Sept. 14 (AP)—The main ticket office of the Boston Terminal Company, the Boston terminus of the New York, New Haven and Hartford and the Boston and Albany Railroads, was robbed of $12,000 in cash during the temporary absence of the cashier this morning.

Employment Gain Shown In August

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 14 (AP)—Employment and payrolls in New York state's factories eased their descent in August and climbed upward at a better than usual rate the State Department of Labor has found.

In some branches of industry large increases in working force were reported. Although the increase in factory employment for the state as a whole was 2.9 per cent, employment in some branches recovered to a much greater extent.

In clothing and millinery there was a 17 per cent increase in employment. In candy manufacture there was a 35 per cent climb. Although there was a net decline of 1.9 per cent in employment in metals and machinery, certain subdivisions of this group reported heavy increases.

Employment in iron and steel dropped 1.8 per cent, but there was a gain of 1.9 per cent in employment in instrument and appliance factories. In railroad factories there was a drop of seven per cent, but in firearms, tools and cutlery the increase was better than 13 per cent.

Accompanying the 2.9 per cent increase in employment was a payroll rise of 3.7 per cent.

The normal seasonal increase in both of these items is only a fraction of one per cent.

The labor department's report, issued last night by Industrial Commissioner Frances Perkins, said August was the first month since September, 1931, to show gains in factory employment and payrolls.

"Most of the gains in individual industries were seasonal," the department said, "and losses continued in many divisions."

Congressman Pratt For Mr. Goodwin

Highland, N. Y.
September 13, 1932

To the Editor of the Kingston
Daily Freeman
Kingston, N. Y.
Dear Sir:

I notice in your issue of September 9, article written by Mr. George A. Yaeger in connection with his candidacy for the nomination for Member of Congress upon the Republican ticket, and to be voted for at the Primary to be held on September 20th. I also note beneath Mr. Yaeger's signature the words "Secretary to Congressman Pratt."

It is true that during my term as Congressman, Mr. Yaeger has acted as my secretary and is still acting as such. Furthermore I look upon him as a very capable and efficient secretary, who has performed to my satisfaction the duties connected with such secretaryship.

However, I wish it distinctly understood that Mr. Yaeger is not running in this Primary as my "Secretary," and that I have not authorized him to use such designation in his campaign.

I have always been an organization Republican and believe in the convention system as practiced in the County of Ulster, and as Mr. Philip A. Goodwin has received the regular organization endorsement throughout the various counties in this Congressional District, I, as an organization Republican, approving the policies followed by the party in this district, wish to announce that I am supporting and will vote for Mr. Goodwin in the Primary.

Respectfully yours,
H. J. PRATT.

Civil Matters In County Court

COUNTY COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER
CATHERINE W. LONGENDYKE, plaintiff, against Marion L. Schneider or Snyder, Jose Marion L. Schmidt, et al.

I, the undersigned, duly appointed referee, by order of this court, dated and entered in the Ulster County clerk's office on the 7th day of September 1932, hereby require each person, not a party to this action, who at the date of the said order had a lien upon any undivided share or interest in the property sought to be partitioned herein, and which is hereinafter described, to appear before me on or before the 28th day of October next at my office, No. 257 Fair Street, in the City of Kingston, in the County of Ulster, to prove his lien and the true amount due or to become due to him by reason thereof.

The premises are described in the complaint in the above cause as follows:

All that certain lot of land situate, lying and being in the City of Kingston, (formerly Village of Rondout), County of Ulster and State of New York, distinguished as lot number twenty-seven (27) on the property of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, according to their survey of the same accompanied by a map thereof, being in front thirty-one (31) feet and in rear thirty-one (31) feet, and one hundred and twenty five (125) feet deep; and being bounded in front on Calder Street, in rear by Mason Street, on the east side by lot number twenty eight (28) formerly occupied by William Kay, on the west side by lot number twenty six (26); being the same premises conveyed by Francis Hanratty and wife to Mary Reis, by deed recorded in the Ulster County clerk's office in Book of Deeds No. 94 on page 832, on the 15th day of December in the year 1855; and conveyed by Peter Reis and others to Mary E. Schneider by deed dated June 28th 1919, and recorded in said clerk's office in Book of Deeds No. 469 at page 475.

Dated, September 12, 1932.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By the Associated Press

London.—Is your home "haunted"? Does a shudder run down your back when you hear footsteps in the attic? Or a paper rattle when people talk? American Realtors, on a visit to England, the world's home of ghosts, say they've found a way to overcome the language barrier. They've arranged a compromise between English and American English.

New York.—Europe is wonderful, but Lucia Graham, 14-year-old granddaughter of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, could hardly wait to get on a train with the mayor. She indicated her first wish was for a "good American ice cream soda."

St. Louis.—Autograph hounds have gone to work on Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's party. The governor and others spent 15 minutes writing their names on bodies, letters, scraps of paper and cars. "It's all right," said the governor to one collector, "so long as you don't put a promissory note over it."

London.—Fine-fingered gents who used to provide one of the hazards of transatlantic liner voyages are out of "work" because of the times. They are the oceanic gamblers. Hardly anyone has money to spare on their kind of play. The press reports one gang has gone into a new racket. They arrange excursions for tourists, collect the money, and flee.

Biarritz.—Flaming colors are the "style hint" society men got from the Prince of Wales' recent sojourn here. His favorite costume was a bright red sports shirt with zipper fastening. With it he wore grey knickers, red socks and white brogues.

ARDONIA.

Ardonia, Sept. 13.—Members of the Official Board will hold their regular monthly business meeting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hasbrouck, Sr., in Modena, Wednesday evening, September 14, at 8 o'clock.

Friday evening, September 16, the Epworth League social will be held in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. A good attendance is desired.

Rally Day and Harvest Home festival, Sunday, October 9, at 11 a. m. All contributions of fruit, vegetables and loose offering will go to the Five Points Mission, located at 69 Madison street in New York city. Dr. George W. Grinton, superintendent and pastor.

Mrs. Eber Palmer, who spent the week-end with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rulle Ward, in Modena attended the entertainment which followed the business meeting of Plattekill Grange, Saturday evening. The subject for the lecturers' hour was "Travelogues" which proved very entertaining.

Mrs. Sarah Paltridge, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Eber Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Paltridge, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Paltridge and Byron Paltridge, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Terwilliger and daughter, Blanche, and Miss Emma Palmer from this place, attended the funeral on Friday afternoon of Mrs. Emma Paltridge, which was held at the home of her son, Harry Paltridge, of Modena.

Myrtle Kelder spent the week-end at the home of her father, Harry Kelder.

Edward Rhinehart has returned home after having spent several days at the Syracuse Fair.

E. G. Palmer and son, Charles, joined Mrs. Palmer on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ward in Modena, where Mrs. Palmer has been week-ending.

Burton Ward and Freston Paltridge of the road force, who were transferred to Kerhonkson to do some work, have returned to their old jobs in town.

A new barber shop has opened up here in the place where A. Appuzzo formerly conducted an ice cream parlor.

Freston Paltridge of Modena called at the Hyatt home Sunday morning.

A number of people from this place attended the ball game at Modena ball diamond on Sunday afternoon.

The Girl Scouts will hold a meeting at the Scout house next Saturday afternoon.

Gerslom Mount has finished filling his silo.

Mrs. Dan Reilley was a caller in Modena, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Marcia Mount recently entertained her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Mount, of Clintondale.

Mr. and Mrs. Dedrick Ronk spent one day last week at the home of Mr. Ronk's sister, Mrs. Howard Atkins, in Marlborough.

Albert Reynolds was a visitor at the home of his sister, Mrs. William Bernard, in Modena on Sunday.

Peculiar Bridal Gift

A common gift of the bridegroom to his bride in the last days of the Sixteenth century was a pair of knives with ornamented sheaths.

REDEEMER CHURCH CALENDAR OF EVENTS.

The weekday Bible school of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will open its fourth year Thursday at 4 o'clock at which time all scholars will register and be assigned to their classes. All desiring to be confirmed are required to attend the weekday Bible school. There is no tuition charge or any collection taken. The work of the school is intended to supplement the work of the Sunday Bible school.

The confirmation class will also meet each week on Friday at 3:45 p. m. until Palm Sunday. Catechism study books will be distributed this Friday. Boys and girls of the age of 12 or over are eligible to join. Those 12 years of age will take the two year course.

The Senior Luther League had an enthusiastic meeting Monday evening at which time President Richard Bailey outlined the plans for the coming year which showed that a full program of devotional and social activities will be held. A fellowship hour will be held on the first Sunday of each month. Leaders for the devotional meetings from October to January 1, have already been appointed and topics assigned. The League has challenged the Luther League of Saugerties to a Dart baseball contest. It is expected that a play will be held in the fall. Several new members were received and from all indications the League will have one of the most successful years in its history. The Leaguers have agreed to collect the used clothing being gathered by the Ladies' Aid Society. Those having articles to donate for the needy unemployed are requested to communicate with the officers or members of the Ladies' Aid in order that the clothing may be collected. The clothing will be sent to the Kingston Relief office.

The new bulletin board appearing in front of the church has been donated by W. C. Kuhn & Co., funeral directors, 147 Fremont avenue.

TABASCO

Tabasco, Sept. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Asa Bessemer and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Straubel of Kingston were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Wynkoop on Sunday.

Sarah Regan of New York city, who has been spending the summer at the Rothberg Boarding House, returned to her people on Sunday.

The local school is now in regular session with Eugene Davies of Oswego as the teacher.

Louis Rothberg, who has been employed by Miss Grace Roberts at Highland, is spending some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rothberg.

A party of friends from Suffern, N. Y., were pleasantly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Decker.

Clara Margaret Young spent Saturday in Kerhonkson visiting Mrs. David Butcher.

John Martine has been employed for a few days at John Schoonmaker's in Pantaukunk.

Sympathy of the entire community goes out to those who mourn in the death of Basil Bessemer.

Myron Terwilliger of this place has been helping Verne Barnhart of Lambdin fill silo.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Wells of Shokan spent Thursday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krom.

Morris Rothberg and Morris Golieb made a business trip to Kingston.

West Shokan Dances

West Shokan, Sept. 14.—The series of week-end dances, which have proven so popular throughout the boarding season, are being continued by Mr. Colange. Again on Saturday night Frank Constable will lead his Royal Delawares in a program featuring dancing in a variety that is sure to please. The general public is cordially welcomed and a riot of fun and frolic is promised.

Democratic Gains Shown In Maine

Portland, Me., Sept. 14 (AP).—Staid Republicans figuratively bristled today at the licking the Democrats gave "Maine tradition" in Monday's state election.

Digesting the extent of Democratic damage to 18 years of Republicanism, they found that in addition to the election of a Democratic governor and two repealist congressmen the minority party's drives have made inroads in the state legislature sufficient to demand a voice—a prominent one—in state affairs.

Democrats gained five seats with another one in doubt in the state senate, where two years ago they were without representation. In the 151 seat votes, they cut down the 1930 Republican strength of 120 to 98. Two seats were yet to be reported upon.

In choosing Lewis J. Brann for governor, the state elected its fourth Democratic chief executive since the civil war, with the voting strength of the 13 unreported precints in the state insufficient to change the results. Brann's majority over his Republican opponent, Burleigh Martin, stood at 1,265.

Clambake at the Ark.

The annual clambake given under the auspices of Joyce-Schirick Post, V. F. W., will be held Sunday, September 18, at the I. J. B. Ark, Tucker's Beach, Port Ewen. The bake will start at 3 p. m. and will be held regardless of the weather conditions. There will be free dancing afternoon and evening.

Rosendale World War Memorial Planned

The work of the Woman's Club of Rosendale for the memorial tablet for the men of the World War is progressing rapidly. A plot of land has been donated and the stone selected will soon be drawn from Minnewaska. Robert F. Browning, county commander of the American Legion, called on the president of the club, Mrs. O'Connor, and pledged to the women the cooperation of the county organization. Commander Browning hopes to organize a Legion post in Rosendale and to install its officers at the Armistice Day dedication of the memorial. The town is showing a fine community spirit in this effort to honor the men who so gallantly lived and died under the flag in their service.

The next meeting of the Women's Club will be held at Zegel's Casino Thursday, September 15, at 2:30 p. m.

The UNIVERSAL Model 585 Cleaner
With Ball Bearing Motor Driven Brush

Produces a sweeping, vibrating, cleaning action that speedily and safely swoops every particle of dirt from the rug's backing to the nap surface, into the dust-proof bag.

The extra powerful suction developed by the sturdy motor is unusually effective for this type of cleaner. All ball bearing movement of both motor and brush reduces operating sounds to a minimum and does not require oiling. Pistol grip handle with finger tip control and swivel rear wheel make its operation absolutely effortless.

The appearance of the UNIVERSAL Model 585 is an attraction in itself and the quality of the materials used gives assurance of a lifetime of satisfactory service.

What to Leave Off the Dress Most Important

It is less difficult, say the French, to know how to make a smart dress than it is to know what to leave off the dress once it is finished. Many an amateur designer, capable of cutting and putting together a thoroughly fashionable costume, has spoiled the result by adding one too many bows, or too many spots of color.

French designers study carefully this subject of decoration. They try each frock with several different color accents, with various hats and with gloves of different types.

So often have they seen their own smartly cut clothes ruined in the wearing by some woman who did not know what to do about accessories that most of the important houses model their clothes with correct hat, gloves, jewels and even flowers.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Sept. 14—The Rev. Frank R. Reynolds, of Keyport, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Will Terpening, of Ulster Park, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Decker.

Lucretia Rebekah Lodge, No 263, will hold its regular meeting at Ulster Park this evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church will hold a cafeteria supper in the church house on Thursday evening, September 22. An entertainment will be given at 8 o'clock.

A special meeting of the official board of the M. E. Church will be held in the church house at 7:30 Thursday evening, September 15.

Mrs. Minnie Fronefield of Poughkeepsie is visiting her friend, Mrs. J. W. Van Wagenen, of Green street.

The meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary has been postponed until Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. H. C. Jump.

A most enjoyable time is promised to all who attend the Firemen's Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps block party in Spinnenweber's garage Thursday evening. An excellent orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

Mrs. Philip O'Reilly and children are visiting Mr. O'Reilly's parents in Esopus.

Mrs. Howard Morgan, who spent the summer with relatives in Groton, N. Y., has returned to her home here.

The Firemen's Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps will practice at 6:30 at the powder mill field Friday evening.

Mrs. Frank Terwilliger and daughter, Edith, are visiting Mrs. Terwilliger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Turck, in Kingston.

Stock Exchange Seat Held a Tool of Trade

The laws of most lands have recognized the sanctity of tools of trade. Usually the carpenter's saw, plane and hammer may not be seized for debt, nor the piano tuner's kit, nor the plumber's furnace and soldering iron. The same may be true of the surgeon's knives and dentist's forceps. But there are further extensions of this thought that lead us far, as, for instance, in an action at law in the case of Worrall versus Worrall that was tried in the New York Supreme court before Justice Frederick P. Close.

There was trouble in the Worrall family and when the split-up came, failing to lay legal hands on other property to satisfy her alimony decree, the lady sought to sequester hubby's seat on the New York Stock exchange, brokering being the gentleman's business. No, not business, trade! To that effect was the judge's ruling. What the shovel is to the navvy and the trowel to the bricklayer, so is the exchange seat to the stockbroker. Take it from him and his means of livelihood is at an end. So wife had to look elsewhere, ruled the judge.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 14, 1932

CLEAN STREETS

"One of the reasons the streets of Vienna are so clean is that throwing litter on a street is punished by an impossible fine," writes an American traveler. He tells of a fellow-American who did not know of this strange custom and so discarded the fragments of a torn envelope as casually as he would have done in his native city of New York or Oshkosh, U. S. A. He was soon tapped on the shoulder by a policeman who collected the cash fine then and there. The American was given a receipt for the amount he had paid. It did not interest him much and, habit being strong, he absent-mindedly tossed it to one side. The eagle-eyed cop was right on the job and stepped up to collect another fine for this second infraction of the rule.

Most annoying, of course. But the result, according to report, is clean streets. Doubtless American policemen are too busy struggling with ordinary traffic problems to take up this additional duty of collecting fines for tossing refuse about. However, one cannot help wishing that some simple, immediate and effective means could be devised for teaching Americans not to throw around papers, matches, cigarette and candy wrappers, cigar and cigarette butts, empty boxes and other rubbish with such lavish hands. Many a city of fine buildings and lovely homes is made ugly by this American bad habit.

CASTLES IN SPAIN.

Now Spain is going to adopt a national plan, after the fashion of the famous Russian plan, but intended for ten years. Five years, it is realized, is too short for such an ambitious undertaking. There is a curious contrast here. Russia is a young nation, eagerly laying the groundwork for its mature life. Spain is an old nation, generally regarded as decadent, plotting a new youth. The youthfulness of the movement is the most remarkable thing about it.

The mapping of this ambitious plan is entrusted to 15 men ranging from 25 to 32 years of age. They include lawyers, professors, engineers and business men. Hardly any of them would be called politicians, or have borne any important part in public life. They were selected less because of their experience and special competence than because they were considered good representatives of "the young, vigorous, aggressive generation" in whose hands the future lies. That generation will be invited to make its own future. Here is such opportunity as youth has been dreaming of. The world will be interested in seeing what use is made of it.

Cool heads in Wall Street lately have been advising caution. They are pleased with the general advance in security and commodity prices, but are afraid it may go too far. A considerable advance, they agree, has been justified, but there are powerful groups "taking advantage of every favorable development that comes their way to keep the speculative pot boiling," and if they are not careful, "it may boil over and put out the fire." No good citizen, no wise business man, wants the fire put out. It can be nursed along, gaining slowly and steadily in strength, only by keeping the speculative boom from running too far ahead of current business improvement. A relapse of the stock market now would be so disheartening as to postpone the big rise that is considered certain to come if no frenzied efforts are made to force it. The patient needs a stimulant, but must not be given too much medicine all at once.

Louis J. Carla of Rock Island, Ill., and Valeria Drummins of Maloy, Ia., married by this time, will get along. When they walked into the county sheriff's office in Rock Island, Carla [illegible] could scrape up full of [illegible] for the license. "We've been eating up," he explained, "and now we're got enough for the license. You can count 'em." The clerk didn't bother to count 'em. And he didn't waste any time getting two young people wed. Just to get in practice, he says, about what happens to the dollars when you take care of the pennies and end on misgivings about the names of Louis and Valeria as their workers in life's harness. That marriage is more likely to be successful than if each of the parties thought in a million dollar unit.

Starting a war from London [illegible] is to be about a blockade against motor trucks, stopping cars by the hundred and combing the city to weed out criminals. There has been a wave of violence [illegible] with several bank ups and [illegible] from "motor gunmen." The police move against them has been likened to military occupation of an Iowa farmers' picket party, with the main approaches to the city posted, the bridges guarded and flying squads of speed cops and motorcycle cops rushing around. We never supposed anything like that could happen in England. We'll have to think again before taking any more vacation trips to a country like that. If we must be shot or robbed by bandits, we prefer to patronize our own.

DIABETICS AND INSULIN

"With insulin it is possible to raise diabetic children who formerly were doomed to die—to prepare them thoroughly for an occupation and to make them worthy heads of families."

This is the statement of Prof. Umber of Berlin, where there are 8,000 cases of diabetes.

He finds that severe illness, tuberculosis, and surgical operations are withstood by diabetic patients, properly treated with insulin, just as well as by healthy persons.

If insulin can save the lives of children afflicted with diabetis, and can keep alive adults despite the damage already done to the pancreatic gland, why is it that so many people still die of diabetes?

The reason is that many are unwilling to follow the diet rules and also use insulin in the manner prescribed. Dr. Elliot P. Joslin, Boston, says there are three to four times as many diabetics now as there were fifteen years ago due to the newer knowledge of diet, upon insulin, and the dependence of these two on exercise, which have greatly prolonged the life of the diabetic.

Unfortunately the diabetic patient is still compelled to inject the insulin he requires. Insulin by the mouth has practically no effect. Most of these patients learn to use the hypodermic needle properly and have no trouble from its use.

It is now possible for those unable to pay for insulin to receive it free from the province, state or city, so that no diabetic patient need die from lack of it.

As you know it is the starchy food—potatoes, bread and sugar—that must be eaten in small quantities by the diabetic, and as Prof. Umber points out, this makes the increased need or use of vegetables, fat and meat, somewhat expensive.

The point to remember then is that there are more diabetics because lives have been prolonged and there are naturally more deaths because of this increased number of cases. The number of cases has increased about fourfold over the records of fifteen years ago, and before the discovery of insulin.

Remember then that deaths from diabetes can be prevented if treatment is begun within a reasonable time, and the patient carries out the treatment as to diet and the use of insulin after he no longer visits his physician.

Drs. Leonard F. C. Wendt and Franklin B. Peck in a series of 1,073 cases found insulin necessary for about one-third, had to be used temporarily for another third, while the remainder got along without it.

Drunkard's Punishment

The drunkard's cloak was an old English punishment for drunkenness. A spirits barrel was hung on the drunkard with holes in the sides through which his hands were thrust. He could neither sit nor lie down.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Nan hopes to solve [illegible] when Jervis [illegible] she returns, jumps ahead of him hoping to prevent his crossing the bridge near the dam. [illegible] but as she does, the bridge [illegible] a terrifying crash. Nan, [illegible] badly, is saved from death on the rocks below by Jervis and the dog Bran. She thinks this is another attempt by Robert Leonard on Jervis' life but her husband subsequently proves [illegible]. Nan is certain the murderer is Robert Leonard, Jervis' former fiancee, in allied with Leonard in the plot.

Chapter 21

DANGEROUS TEA PARTY

At lunch Jervis made the sort of polite conversation he would have to a guest, and immediately after lunch he went out. The day had turned to heat; the last of the haze was gone, and fierce sun beat down upon the damp ground; far away on the horizon heavy piled up clouds suggested thunder.

Nan took a book to a seat on the shady side of the lawn, but she did not read. The book lay on her lap, while her thoughts moved restlessly about the broken bridge. She had a shock, and it had left her shaken. Jervis had been as near death as he could ever be until death took him. She did not think of how near she had been herself. She thought of Jervis taking that long step forward on to the bridge, of the bridge cracking, of the violence of its fall, and of the roar of the falling water.

She opened her book at random and began to read. The words passed over her mind like water passing over stone; they left no mark. She shut the book, and saw Jervis crossing the lawn toward her with Bran at his heels.

"Well—" he said, "I've had the men down at the bridge."

Nan turned to face him. Bran came over to her and put his head in her lap.

"The wood was rotten. The spray from the fall had rotted it. As a matter of fact it was Leonard who directed my attention to it not a week ago—Benham reminded me. I don't like Leonard—he's not a man I've ever cared about, but he's a family connection, and I think you ought to take back what you said."

Nan got up. She took a step towards him and stood still.

"This is the third time he's tried to kill you," she said.

She saw his face darken and then change. He was looking past her, and she turned involuntarily. Janet Tetterley and Rosamund Carew were coming across the lawn.

Nan braced herself. She felt taken unaware and defenceless, but she called on her courage, and it rose.

Alfred brought chairs, and presently Monk entered upon the imposing ritual of tea.

Janet Tetterley, a ginger-haired woman with pale eyes and magenta lips painted on crooked, shook hands without looking at Nan, and began at once to talk to Jervis about people Nan did not even know by name. Pogo was broke and was going to have a try for the Winkledon girl, but it wasn't likely she'd look at him, because Sherter was in the running too, and naturally he'd have a pull over Pogo.

Jervis preferring Pogo's chances, they became involved in argument, until Janet Tetterley produced a red herring in the shape of an extraordinary rumor about somebody named Ronzo and his latest conquest.

Nan poured out tea. If it had not been for Jervis, she would not have minded.

It would have amused her to watch Janet Tetterley, who was so thin that each of her restless movements threatened to break something. Having achieved a miraculous sleekness by the complete sacrifice of health, color and bloom, she was inordinately pleased with the result. At intervals of ten minutes or so she opened a vanity case, and applied powder to her bony features, and another touch of magenta to her thin lips. She talked without ceasing, and had something faintly unpleasant to say about everyone she mentioned. She appeared to amuse Jervis.

Rosamund sat, for the most part, lighting one cigarette from another and talking little. Once when Nan looked up she found herself meeting Rosamund's eyes. Behind their wonderful dark blue a definitely hostile something met and then instantly evaded her. Nan felt a little shaken; she did not expect Rosamund to like her. An armed neutrality was the best that could be hoped for between them.

The two did not make a long visit. As they got up to go, Tetterley made a restless movement towards Nan.

"Oh, by the way, Basher told me to be sure to ask you about your people."

Nan gazed at her. She did not repeat the word Basher, but she contrived to produce the impression of having done so.

Tetterley jerked her emaciated shoulders.

"Basher's my husband. He's got it into his head that you may be related to some Forsyths he used to know. I told him it was most improbable, but he said to ask. I believe he was in love with one of them. They used to live at a place in Connecticut, and one of the sons went off digging up Old Testament places in Chaldea. Basher says he was quite well known in his own line."

"Nigel Forsyth," said Jervis.

Tetterley nodded.

"That's it. He wrote books about it. I don't read them myself, but Basher gloats over them, and he particularly said I was to find out if you were related to these Connecticut Forsyths."

Nan's color rose.

"Yes, I am."

"Not really!" Her tone made this an impertinence.

"Nigel Forsyth was my father."

Tetterley knocked the ash off her cigarette and said, "Basher will be thrilled."

After which she turned with one of her abrupt movements and declared that they ought to have gone ten minutes ago.

Neither she nor Rosamund took any leave of Nan, who was left uncertain of whether to cross the lawn with them or to remain where she was. She made a tentative movement to follow them, but they were already some distance away; she would have had to run to catch them up. No one of the three looked round. She hesitated, stood looking after them for a moment, and then returned to the tea-table with growing certainty that she had done the wrong thing. A few minutes later, she got up and walked to the house, her cheeks burning and her courage very low.

She met Jervis in the hall, and he looked at her with a cold anger.

"Why didn't you come to see them off?"

"You went without me."

"You should have come too."

She said, with a simplicity that checked him, "I am sorry. You went off so quickly at the end, and I thought it would look foolish if I ran after you."

He passed on without another word, and she did not see him till dinner.

Humiliation is brought upon Nan, tomorrow, by one whom she loves dearly.

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, Sept. 13—H. Boice is gaining and is able to leave his bed for a short time now and then.

Mrs. C. Botchford of Woodland, who was quite ill, is better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Boice of Kingston are spending some time with Mr. Boice's father during his convalescence.

Mrs. J. Norton of Watkins Glen visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Schwarzwaelder.

There are no new cases of whooping cough. Those having it now are Mrs. H. Van Etten and little daughter, the three little ones of Mr. and Mrs. B. Grant and two little ones of Mr. and Mrs. J. Van Etten.

Mrs. C. Mooney and Miss Eileen, Mrs. Loomis and Miss Harriet and Miss Bessie Gordon went to Margaretville Friday evening to see the movie, "The First Year," which featured Janet Gaynor and C. Farrell.

Mrs. T. J. McGrath, who has been quite ill at the Benedictine Hospital, is now considered much improved.

Mrs. G. Baldwin, Mrs. D. Gross and daughter, Edna, Miss Elizabeth Conway, Mrs. J. Schoonmaker, little Jimmie McMara and Miss Treasa Conway, enjoyed a trip to Lake Mohonk, where they spent the day. The outing was given in honor of Miss Treasa of New York city, who was visiting at her home here. R. Johnson drove the car.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Loomis upon the birth of a daughter, Jacquelyn Lee.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Gulnac and Miss Helen in their bereavement. Mr. Gulnac will be missed in the community. He was highly respected by all. He had a good word for one and all and was ever willing to lend a helping hand. The many beautiful floral pieces spoke of the widespread circle of friends who were saddened by his death.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Broeckner and family of Kingston called on their old time friends here. All were glad to see them again.

The Misses Elnora Breithaupt, Ethel Ford, Dorothy Boyle, Kathryn Johnson and William Malloy are among those attending Kingston High School.

Charles Donovan and Clifford Seeliehen are attending Margaretville High.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—[illegible] by John Hix

An Englishman, James Brooke, great uncle of the present Rajah of Sarawak, was the first holder of that title in 1841 when he was ceded Sarawak by the Rajah of Brunei for having helped him in putting down a rebellion. Sarawak was formerly a part of Brunei, in Borneo. His right to the throne was recognized in 1842 by the Sultan.

The original Rajah was succeeded by his nephew in 1868 and he, in turn, was followed by Sir Charles, present Rajah and son of the second ruler. England established a protectorate over Sarawak in 1888 and in 1904 King Edward recognized Sir Charles's title.

The blacksnake's eggs, laid in a damp place, absorb moisture during incubation. As the young snake develops, the egg increases in size until, just before the young emerges, it is about one-third greater in diameter. The leathery covering of the egg, rather than a shell, permits this expansion.

Cloudburst is a misnomer for a sudden, heavy rain. The cloud does not burst, or even suddenly open up; the phenomena is caused by the wind. When such a rain occurs, it has been raining for some time, but an ascending column of air has prevented the drops from falling to the ground. When the collected rain overcomes the upward movement of the air, the water falls at once, resulting in what we call a cloudburst.

MARLBOROUGH.

Marlborough, Sept. 13—Mrs. Glenda Anderson and Miss Sara Newell spent Sunday at Windham, N. Y., visiting friends.

Mrs. Catherine Rall of Queens Village, L. I., is spending an indefinite time at the home of her sister, Mrs. Nicholas Mertes.

Mrs. L. P. Gaffney and son, Albert, of New Paltz, visited her brother, Frank Hannigan, on Sunday.

Mrs. Mae Terpenning of New York city spent Friday evening at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Newell.

The Marlborough Free Library has received a check in the amount of $22.71. It is the gift of Mrs. Benjamin Chellura. The check was Mrs. Chellura's share of the funds of the Italian-American Club Auxiliary which has been disbanded. The club auxiliary equally divided the funds in the treasury among the members. Mrs. Chellura upon receiving her check thoughtfully turned it over to the local library.

Mrs. Jesse Penfield has returned to her home in Poughkeepsie, after spending several weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Barry.

Miss Edith Quimby will enter Syracuse University this week.

Miss Beatrice Walker left Thursday for East Hampton, L. I., where she will teach for the coming year. Miss Walker graduated from New Paltz Normal in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mackey were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Mackey in Clintondale.

Mrs. Solon Butterfield has returned to her home in Delmar, N. Y., after a few weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Tuthill.

John Welsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Welsh, has returned home from Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie, where he underwent a tonsil operation. Dr. A. C. J. Gervais of Milton performed the operation. John is a student in the Marlborough High School.

Mrs. Linda Cutillo, who has been ill with typhoid fever, is slowly recovering.

Edward Barry of Jersey City, N. J., spent a week at the home of Roy Barry recently.

Thomas Newell spent Friday night and Saturday in New York city.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. J. LeCompte and daughter, Lois, spent Labor Day at the home of Dr. Charles Rose at Amagansett, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Barry and daughter, Marion, spent Sunday afternoon at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tierney, in Newburgh.

Employes of the Marlborough garage are wearing attractive new coats. They are of tan material with "Diamond D Lines" inscribed in red across the shoulders. On the front appears the name of the employe to whom the coat belongs.

Miss Frances Casey of Letchworth Village spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Casey.

Miss Luella Flanto of Milton spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. Vancala.

Harcourt Pratt of Highland was a caller in town one day the past week.

Local physicians report numerous cases of intestinal grip in the town.

Miss Grace Lockwood of Woodcliff, N. J., visited a few days the past week at the home of Mrs. William Postel.

Miss Olive Atkins spent the week-end at her home at Ardee, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Barrett Wygant are parents of a daughter, born the past week at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

About forty members of the Community Garden Club attended the September meeting held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Rusk. An interesting talk was given by Mr. Palen of the F. I. Pierson nursery of Tarrytown. He took as his subject "The Planting and Care of Perennials" and proved to be an unusually worthwhile speaker. He gave many useful hints which will be helpful to those having perennials. At the close of his talk he answered questions asked by various interested members. During the business meeting final plans were made for the fall flower show to be held September 28. The show will be held on the R. W. Cole property in Marlborough.

Thomas Newell was a business caller in Goshen on Monday.

Miss Jane Lord of Newburgh spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooney.

Miss Margaret McConnell motored to Rochester over the week-end and holiday.

John Lymen and Edgar Simms spent the holiday at the former's camp at Lake Minerva.

William Clark is spending a few days in New York city.

Miss Kathryn Cumiskey has resumed her duties at Roseton, where she will teach this term.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dowd and James Welsh spent the holiday at Asbury Park.

J. A. DuBois spent Wednesday in Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rand spent the week-end and holiday in Troy.

Miss Mary DuBois has been quite ill at her home.

Miss Gladys Clack of Rock Port, Mass., spent the past week visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Clack.

Directors of the Marlborough Lions Club met Thursday evening for the purpose of furthering plans for charter night, to be held September 28. Olaf Sundstrom was appointed chairman and Fred Freemel assistant of a committee to complete arrangements for the event. It was desired to hold a meeting of the board of directors every Monday evening at the Central Hudson office. Tuesday evening the third meeting of the club will be held. It will be a supper meeting at Shady Brook Lodge.

Twenty-two truckloads of local fruit were carried to New York markets by trucks, owned and piloted by drivers of John Mansion & Son, several nights the past week.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

The September meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held Thursday, September 15, at 2:30 p. m., in the parlor of St. James Methodist Church. Plans will be determined for conducting the work of the organization during the coming year. An election of officers will occur at this meeting. It is desired that there be a full attendance of members. Visitors are cordially invited.

First Sidewalk in Paris

The Rue de L'Odeon was the first street in Paris and perhaps Europe to be equipped with a sidewalk. It took place 150 years ago.

WEST SHOKAN.

Robert G. Knorpp returned to Brooklyn on Tuesday after spending the week-end with his wife and family at Main street.

Everyone regrets to learn that Mrs. Sarah Beesmer of Watson Hollow is suffering from a stroke. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

A representative of the New York Telephone Company called on subscribers in this vicinity on Saturday, checking up on the new dial system.

The Winkler cider mill is going full swing these days while rush orders of local customers are being filled. Joe and Eddie are doing quite a rushing business, as the cider berries are more abundant this year than last.

School children are getting back in the old routine once more, now that school has been open for a week. The local students who just entered the Freshman class at Kingston High School find that it is quite a difference from grammar school, with one room and only one teacher.

Thursday night comes the regular meeting of the Olive Rebekahs at Olive Bridge. The annual election of officers will take place and at the close of the session refreshments will be served. A full attendance of the members is expected, also a number of visiting members.

On Saturday evening a group of Odd Fellows attended the clambake held by Advance Lodge at Marlborough. The group consisted of Harlowe McLean, William Jordan, William Shultis, Harry Krom and LeGrand Shultis. All reported a very delightful trip and the bake excellent.

Nights have been real chilly of late and frost came close on several occasions.

Mrs. Marshall Roosa returned home Sunday, after spending the week-end with her son, Hubert, and family of Kingston. On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Roosa observed their silver wedding anniversary at their home, 75 Marius street. A group of about twenty-five relatives and friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Roosa formerly resided at West Shokan and enjoy the friendship and esteem of many about this locality. All wish many, many happy returns of the day. Mr. Roosa and his wife, who was formerly Miss Mabel Wolven, are representatives of the town's most prominent families.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hannibal of Kingston, accompanied by her sister, Miss Mary Crispell, were Sunday morning callers at West Shokan Heights.

Homemade Varnish

An excellent clear varnish can be made by dissolving beeswax in warm turpentine. The turpentine should be heated in an old pan and the beeswax (shredded) stirred slowly into it.

you can prove the advantage of

GAS HEATING

YOU have heard much of the advantages of home heating with gas, the only completely automatic fuel. Now you can try it in your own home for an entire heating season, knowing all the costs in advance. Your heating contractor is so certain that you will insist on keeping gas house-heating once you have tried it for yourself, that he makes this liberal trial offer.

1. A fee of $5.00 per month as a guaranty of good faith, is the only cost for equipment or installation for the first heating season.

2. Operating costs are guaranteed in advance. After a careful study of your home and its heating by a trained engineer, a written estimate of fuel costs will be given. You will probably pay less than this amount, but in no case need you pay more, for the trial period.

3. The complete cost, if equipment is accepted, is only $185.00, including installation with a thermostat to regulate temperature automatically. Your trial-rental fee for the first heating season is applied against this cost.

4. There is no obligation to buy. Should you decide for any reason not to complete the purchase after the trial heating season, equipment will be promptly removed and your furnace restored to its original condition. There is no further charge for installation or removal.

5. There are no heavy heating season charges. The cost of fuel as well as equipment may be budgeted for payment over the entire year, so that there is no extra burden during the winter months.

SEEK MANGER WHERE CHRIST WAS BORN

Jerusalem Relic Now Revered May Be Wrong.

London.—Excavations started after an accidental discovery are expected to reveal the manger in which Christ was born.

A rock-hewn grotto at the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem has been shown for centuries as the manger, but the new excavations seem to show that tradition has been mistaken, the Bethlehem correspondent of the Sunday Express says.

Though it is agreed that the Church of the Nativity, the oldest Christian building in the world, stands on the site of the inn where Mary and Joseph sought shelter, not all authorities believe the manger now venerated to be the actual one.

The Church of the Nativity actually is a series of monasteries and churches of three sects—Greeks, Latins and Armenians—under one room. Below the transept, reached by a circular staircase, is the Grotto, or Chapel of Nativity.

The pavement in the underground Chapel of Nativity was broken. After discussion between the three sects it was arranged that the public works department of the government should replace the flagstones.

When the workmen removed the old stones and started digging, they were surprised to find the remains of some former building.

The antiquities department in Jerusalem was called in, and walls, pillars, doors and stairs were revealed. Government archeologists are now sinking shafts at three places.

It is thought by some experts that the remains found are part of the original church erected by Constantine the Great, the first Christian emperor, in the year 330. These parts, apparently, were covered by Justinian, who made alterations two centuries later.

A new pavement has been found and a subterranean vaulted roof.

Through this massive roof is being sunk a shaft into what may be the actual manger, the stable portion of the inn where Mary and Joseph sought shelter after they had been refused admission to the inn "because there was no room for them."

Underground Fortress Holds England's Gold

London.—A fortress in which England's gold reserves will be housed, containing safes impregnable to assault, bombardment, dynamite and flood for 500 years, is being built under the streets of London.

The safes are being built by the Bank of England and are costing $2,-500,000. The language of the conservative official reports describes them as "artillery proof."

The safes will probably be finished in three years. They consist of three sections, one of which is already finished and another under way. The strong room rests on a three-foot bed of concrete, reinforced with hardened steel rods. Over this a layer of welded steel is spread. From this the sides and ends are carried up to form a gigantic box into which the safes and vaults are built.

The only approach is from above, for no amount of tunneling and blasting would grant an entrance below. The entrance to the vaults themselves is guarded by a great safe door weighing 25 tons and having a combination code. The combination is divided, and no one person knows the whole of it.

The vaults are so constructed as to be safe from flood waters and raging fires. Adequate precautions have been taken against hold-ups through an elaborate system of electric alarms.

Village Smithy Now Operates Welding Shop

Mason City, Mich.—Jack Fowler, who has not shod a horse in 11 years, is still Mason's village blacksmith.

With the passing of horses, Fowler declares, he was forced to adapt his shop for modern day needs. He now operates a welding establishment, but in one corner he has an anvil, forge, and steel vise stored, which, he says, "are to remind him of olden days."

Fowler came to Michigan 60 years ago and began the blacksmith trade when eighteen years old in a shack which was situated on what is now the cite of the Ingham county jail here. At that time, he said, there were seven other blacksmiths in Mason.

Foreclosure Was Only Long Word to Eliza

Fort Worth, Texas.—Those big words "mawgage fo'-closh-ah" didn't mean a thing to Eliza Anderson, one-hundred-and-two-year-old negress.

When police ejected her from her home after the foreclosure, Eliza moved right back in, catching the new tenant, Suella Jackson, out. A second removal was too much for Eliza. She bombarded the house with rocks. Suella abdicated amid a shower of window panes.

And to add to Eliza's misery police charged her with "malicious mischief."

Deer Had 120 Points

Colusa, Calif.—Jim ("Coyote") Smith, local cattleman, has found a deer's antlers containing 120 points. Smith found the deer's carcass while looking for cattle. The points on the antlers range from one-half inch to ten inches.

THE BROTHERS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A MAN once kicked your father's shin.
If others hadn't stepped right in,
Yes, hadn't seen them,
Got between them,
Your father very likely would
Have gone to jail, and gone for good.

Well, men are funny. Just last night
Your dad came in an awful sight.
They nearly had to Carry dad to
His bed—he couldn't walk just right.
I said, "You've had another fight.

"An awful fight—just see your head!"
"There wasn't any fight," he said,
"'Twas just the brothers
And some others,
I've joined that lodge I wanted to;
Tonight the brothers put me through."

"They put you what?" "The first degree
They put me through," he says to me,
"The brothers, honey."
Men are funny:
They leave him lame, they pound him good,
And that's what men call "brotherhood."

Students To Identify Artists From Portraits

Prize Contest Opens to All Pupils in Public and Parochial Schools of Kingston—Reward is Free Tickets to Community Concerts.

The Kingston Community Concert Association is offering to all students regularly enrolled in the public and parochial schools of Kingston the opportunity of hearing some world celebrated concert artists during the coming season.

In the window of the Chamber of Commerce, Governor Clinton Hotel, are many photographs of living artists, all nationally known, many of them outstanding radio and concert artists.

To each of the five students regularly enrolled at any public or parochial schools of Kingston who named the largest number of these artists correctly the Kingston Community Concert Association will present a free season membership for the entire year. This membership will allow each winner to attend three high class concerts to be presented this season in Kingston. To the five students filing the second highest lists tickets for two concerts during the season will be available; and to the five students filing the third highest number of artists, tickets for one concert during the season will be presented. Fifteen students will be entitled to hear some outstanding concerts this year.

The rules of the concert are as follows: Come to the headquarters of the concert association, Chamber of Commerce, Governor Clinton Hotel, with pad and pencil. In the window you will find many photographs of nationally known artists; each picture will have a number; write on your list the number of the pictures and the name of the artist; write your own name and address on the list; file your list inside the headquarters with the secretary of the Community Concert Association.

The 15 boys and girls guessing the largest number of these artists will be notified shortly after the close of the contest, and will have the opportunity of hearing some of these nationally known artists during the coming season. The contest closes Saturday night at 9 o'clock. There is no obligation of any kind in connection with this contest. The Kingston Community Concert Association is simply desirous of extending the courtesy of the association to the young people of Kingston.

GUESTS ENTERTAINED AT MASSIMO BUNGALOW COLONY.

West Shokan, Sept. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Massimo, of the Massimo bungalow colony group, were given a complete surprise on Saturday afternoon, September 10, when a large Marmon car drew up at their summer cottage containing friends and relatives who took advantage of the delightful September harvest weather to come to the country for the week-end as surprise guests of Mr. and Mrs. Massimo. In the group were the Misses Grace and Rose Spino of New Rochelle, N. Y., cousins of Mrs. Louis S. Massimo, also Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lambert of New Rochelle, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caggiano of New York city.

Scarcely had the party alighted from their car when to make the surprise still more complete a Buick car rolled up containing Mr. and Mrs. Massimo's son, Joseph, of Bayside, Long Island, who came up to spend the week-end with his parents, and as well enjoy the company of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Massimo.

Members of the first party, who were making their first visit to this locality, were amazed at the wonderful scenery of the reservoir and surrounding mountains. At evening the harvest moon approaching its full, flooded the valley with its mellow light affording a treat to the newcomers that will linger long in memory, while the chill of the night reminded one of the approaching autumn season.

The dinner party on Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Massimo and their granddaughter, Grace Curran, who has been spending Labor Day week-end here. In order to afford an unobstructed view of the reservoir and valley Mr. Massimo conducted his guests to the lookoff point on the brow of the hill on Cyrus Carle's property, formerly "Uncle Rowland Bell's" farm lying against the slopes of South Mountain. This point of observation is at an altitude of several hundred feet above and a half mile distant from the Massimo colony, with the rock gardens, vineyard, statuary, and recreation grounds, swimming pool, etc. With regret the visitors took their leave Sunday evening and much as they wished to remain longer, but Mrs. Caggiano is a New York city school teacher, which necessitated her being on the job Monday morning. Mr. Lambert, who is a prominent metropolitan newspaperman, will doubtless give expression of his trip here in the columns of the press. They all had a most enjoyable visit and were wonderfully impressed with general well-kept attractiveness and scenic beauty of this locality.

Mrs. Joseph Massimo remained Sunday night and left for home next morning, accompanied by little Miss Grace Curran, whose home is nearby that of the winter residence of the Massimo family in Bayside, Long Island.

The Massimo brothers, who now are retired, are interior decorators and designers by trade. At the time of the building of the Grand Central station in New York city they were employed with the marvelous work, which has attracted the eyes and brought commendations from countless thousands of world wide travelers who have passed beneath the arched dome and gazed upward in admiration at the man-made starry heavens.

At the Massimo colony callers may find a ready welcome and be gladly shown about the grounds.

When Right of Command Was Won by Washington

When George Washington rode into Philadelphia on February 8, 1756, accompanied by his aide, Captain Mercer, he lacked some days of being twenty-four years old; but already he was a personage and important enough to have his visit mentioned in the following week's issue of the Pennsylvania Gazette.

He was on his way to Boston to confer with General Shirley, that the latter might determine the right of command between himself and Captain Dagworthy, who acted on a commission of the governor of Maryland. It was decided by the commander in chief of the British forces in America that Colonel Washington, as a provincial field officer, would be in command at Fort Cumberland. That decision gave him the supreme satisfaction of having his contention ratified by authority.

A long and expensive journey was required to settle this disagreement, but Washington footed the bills for his aide and himself and appears to have enjoyed his sojourns in Philadelphia, New York and Boston.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Made Florence Famous

The architect Brunelleschi had no small part to play in making Florence a leader in Renaissance art. He journeyed to Rome in 1377 and brought back and interpreted his inspiration in the classic revival so well that the Florentines speedily took a prominent place in the stimulation of new beauties, new culture. Her furniture ranked with the best of the period.

THREE MORE FALL VICTIMS OF 'PROHIBITION' LAW

Three places were visited by officers from the local prohibition office on Tuesday.

At Hillsdale the agents found hard cider and arrested Marborough Gibson and Edward J. Dromm on charges of sale and possession.

On a visit to Hudson the agents paid a call at 255 Columbia street, where they allege they found home brew beer and whiskey. They arrested John Joseph Witko alias Joseph Strow.

At Washington and Second streets, Athens, the agents arrested Paul F. Salvino on a charge of sale and possession of home brew beer.

All three defendants will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Arthur C. Connelly.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

Necklines Must Be High

New York fashions have been accepting it as a matter of course that before we know it we are up to our necks in them. Several of the new models are buttoning in sidelines around hands and using them to avoid any interference in revealing collars.

A bit of contrasting white or otherwise under the chin is flattering now as always especially when the note is repeated on the deep cuffs. As a matter of fact frock that are of one color throughout from just above or below the elbow to the wrist are usually very flattering. What is even better, unless impossible to wear scarfs the new ones are very complimentary on the throat. Embroidery beading, and other ornamental affects are used for deep cuffs.

While one hardly anticipates a season of elbow sleeves there are a surprising number of them being worn, considering the season. These are always loose, or big, never of the coat sleeve type, abbreviated.

There is a practical aspect to clothes this season that endears them to us. Weights are not too heavy to become a problem, and silks are heavy enough to change about with woolens without discomfort, the exception to this being sheers which are more of an evening alternative and have as rivals satins and taffetas and crepes and velvets.

Although everyone speaks of and for simpler clothes, one must not forget that this means only simple in effect. Actually the smart dresses are rather complicated in details, involving much handwork such as fagotting for example. Speaking generally, when a model is in one color and of one fabric, there is some finer workmanship introduced, but when contrasts are brought into play, either in color or fabric or both, there is less reason for complicating the plot by hand details. Contrasts are still much in demand, and such old alliances as velvet and silk, or silk and wool, fur and fabric and dull and glossy surfaces are all back in fashion.

A TRICKY COLLAR AND BELT

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild

A black wool crepe frock has a close-to-the-throat neckline formed by a white pique tie, and belt fastened in the same manner. The sleeves are short in capelet style.

Purple With White — A New Note

The collections of Vionnet and Lanvin are "pretty" and "wearable." In general, waistlines and skirt lengths remain the same. Evening dresses done in silk and wool mixtures that had the look of woolens are new-looking and interesting. In colors fashionists remark reds, rusty browns, golden browns with yellow, and emphasize purple shades, the last named for daytime and evening. Vionnet does smart things with purple as a trimming for white gowns, also combinations of green and brown.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Upper sleeve treatments are frequently executed in flat furs and give the new coats a very "different" look.

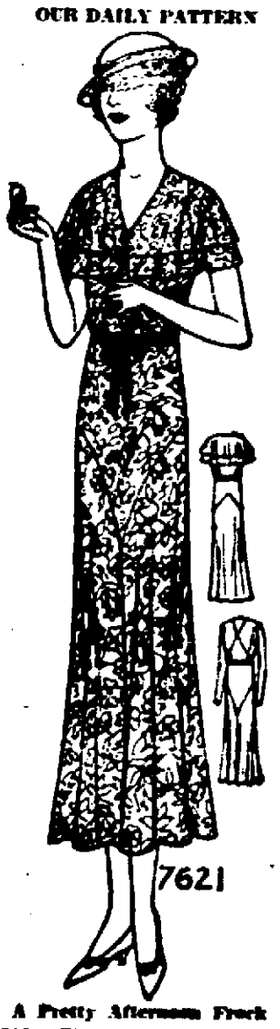
Vivid lemon shades are quoted as being smart—although orange is the leading novelty shade.

Bright afternoon dresses under black coats seem to be heavily sponsored, even though so many still cling to black dresses enlivened with colored trimmings.

Covered shoulders are accepted as the newest evening preference.

"Tiny fringed shawls" accompany evening gowns from Mainbocher.

OUR DAILY PATTERN



A Pretty Afternoon Frock

7621. This attractive model features criss-cross lines, and the popular capelets. It may be finished with long sleeves and without the capelets, or both sleeves and capelets may be used. The flare skirt is mounted on a yoke shaped in points in the back and in a long point in the front. Printed crepe in multi-colors was employed for this design. Eyelet embroidered batiste or printed linen is also suggested. It is very attractive too, in chiffon.

Designed in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. If made with the capelets, as in the large view, size 38 will require 4¾ yards of 39 inch material. If made with sleeves as in the small view, it will require 2⅞ yards. With sleeves and capelets 3 1/2 yards will be required. The tie belt of ribbon will require 2 yards. Capelets of contrasting material 39 inches wide will require 1¼ yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of [illegible] by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

OSTRANDER ORIGINATES PRIZE WINNING DAHLIA

Walter H. Ostrander, local merchant, has a hobby for growing dahlias and has some beauties. He has displayed many varieties in his store windows at the head of Wall street. Mr. Ostrander is the originator of a beautiful new variety of dahlia. He has displayed it at Rosendale and other fall shows where it has caused much favorable comment. This dahlia was grown from a seed which produced a beautiful large bloom the first year. Mr. Ostrander recognized the merits of this flower and had a number of plants propagated from the roots.

After trying this flower in his own garden for three years, Mr. Ostrander sent some tubers to the Trial Gardens of the American Dahlia Society at Storrs, Conn. Other plants were placed on trial at a prominent dahlia grower's farm in Trenton, N. J.

The plants left at Trenton have produced many beautiful blooms. One of these blooms was shown at the Trenton Horticulture Show at Trenton, N. J., on September 13. The flower was judged the largest in the show and was awarded the Silver Medal of the New Jersey Dahlia Society. The flower exhibited was close to 12 inches in diameter and of perfect formation.

It will be interesting to hear of favorable reports of Mr. Ostrander's seedling from Storrs, Conn.

P.-T. A. No. 4

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 4 at their meeting on Tuesday afternoon, voted to send their president, Mrs. Timothy Donovan, to the annual convention of the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers to be held in Albany October 2 to 8. A letter was read from the district president, Mrs. Arthur H. Russell, in which the Ulster County Conference to be held in Kingston on October 22, was announced. The unit went on record as favoring the establishment of an orchestra in each school. The president, Mrs. Donovan, appointed Mrs. Fred Leverich and Mrs. G. D. Matthews to act as a program committee for the year. Mrs. Oscar Goodsell as chairman of the National Child Welfare Magazine and Mrs. Margaret Pendle as chairman of the membership campaign.

CLINTONDALE GRANGERS HOLD INTERESTING MEETING

Clintondale, Sept. 13—The regular meeting of Clintondale Subordinate Grange was held on Monday evening at the Grange Hall. Because of the meeting falling on Labor Day few were present. After the business session games, music and vocal selections were enjoyed. Dainty and delicious refreshments were served by a committee, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Covert, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Ostrander, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Roni, Claude Jenkins and Eber Palmer, Sr., and sons, William and Eber, Jr. The next regular meeting will be held on September 19, when the reports of the Ulster County and New York State fairs will be given. At this time the committee in charge of refreshments will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gerow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood, Mrs. Preston Coy, Miss Mary Catherine Coy, Mr. and Mrs. William Davis and James Davis.

The regular meeting of the Clintondale Juvenile Grange was postponed because of the absence of the matron. However, the next meeting will be held on Monday evening, September 19, at which time all members are asked to be present.

MILTON

Milton, Sept. 13—The ladies of the Milton Presbyterian Missionary Society will hold a luncheon the afternoon of Wednesday, September 21, at the home of Mrs. Birdsall Tuber. A generous menu is planned.

The Ladies' Needlecraft Society have made plans for the annual harvest home festival on October 16 in the Milton Presbyterian Church.

The next meeting of the Ladies' Needlecraft and Women's Missionary Societies will be held Wednesday afternoon, October 5, at 2:30 o'clock.

The next meeting of the Milton Grange will be held on September 30. This will be an open meeting, at least for the lecturer's hour, with every Granger asked to bring one guest to enjoy the program. September 26 will be National Grange Rooster's Night in Granges all over the country.

Several fruit growers continue to ship plums to New York city and report receipts of 50c to 60c a 12 quart basket the past week. Both German prune and Blue Damsons are shipped. Daniel Gaffney, Howard Baker, Arena and Amora and Edward Quimby are among the principal shippers from Marlborough.

Milton students this year are attending schools at Highland and Marlborough. While the majority is still going to Highland about six from Milton entered the Marlborough school this fall. Two busses are required to carry those who go to the Highland school every morning. The Diamond D bus lines, owned by John A. DuBois, still has the contract for carrying Milton children to Highland. This is an independent contract let by the Milton school board.

Miss Anna Kaley has enrolled at Spencer's Business College in Newburgh.

A meeting of the local W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Edward Young Friday afternoon.

Shipments of apples and pears to New York and Brooklyn have been heavy the past week as many growers have been consigning. Greenings and McIntosh have been bringing $1 and $1.50 for the former and $1 to $2 for the latter. Bartlett pears have been selling at 75c to $1 and Seckels 65c a half bushel basket.

A meeting of the Milton Reading Circle will be held Monday evening. Every lady present is to try her best to provide a taller story than every other lady. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. C. Jenkins. It will be preceded (weather permitting) by a porch supper. Tall stories is the subject of the afternoon program.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spratt of Geneva, N. Y., have been visiting the former's father and sister, William P. Spratt and Miss Loretta Spratt.

Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Bunker have been visiting relatives at Pittsfield, Mass.

Members of the Ladies' Needlecraft Society of the Milton Presbyterian Church are canning fruit for the Industrial Home in Kingston.

The tenement house on the farm of Samuel Lafaro west of Milton village was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon. The Milton Fire Company responded but the flames were beyond control when the fire was discovered.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Warren spent the week-end at Pine Hill.

It is reported that quite a large amount of peaches have been stolen from the farms of Edward Wood and Curtis Northrip but no clue has been found as yet as to who the thieves are.

Several local people enjoyed the cruise in Bobby Sanford's show boat last Tuesday evening.

Ponckhockie Ladies' Aid

At the September meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Ponckhockie Congregational Church it was decided to hold a chicken pie supper in connection with their annual bazaar to be held on Wednesday, October 26. Prices will be very reasonable.

"I'm over 45," says this lovely stage and screen star, whose talent and beauty have won her fame. "A woman is as old as she looks. I am among the scores of stars who use Lux Toilet Soap regularly."

Keep the glorious appeal of YOUTH —Screen Stars know how—

DON'T let birthdays frighten you! The screen and stage stars laugh at them. These recent photographs show why!

"No woman need fear added years," says the lovely Betty Compson, whose glorious young charm wins hearts by the thousands on the screen. "Stage and screen stars must keep youthful charm, and they know a young-looking skin is absolutely essential."

The stage and screen stars have found the way to keep their skin smooth and fresh, year after year! They use Lux Toilet Soap regularly—at home in their own beautifully appointed bathrooms and in their studio dressing rooms as well.

9 out of 10 Screen Stars use it

In Hollywood, youthful appeal means success itself. Of the 694 important actresses there, including all stars, 686 regularly care for their skin with Lux Toilet Soap. The preference of the screen stars for Lux Toilet Soap is so well known in Hollywood all the big studios have made it their official soap.

The stage stars, too, overwhelmingly prefer this fragrant white soap. Gentle and so beautifully white that no other soap can rival it, Lux Toilet Soap is excellent for every type of skin. Begin today to let it care for your skin. Escape the tyranny of birthdays—stay lovely, appealing, as the screen stars do.

Three Good Rules

1. Forget yesterday.
2. Work today.
3. Plan for tomorrow.

First Chorus Girl (quarreling in dressing room)—Not only that, but you get uglier every day.

Second Ditto—Another thing that I can do and you can't.

The man who says the right thing at the right time is rare. But not half so rare as the man who says nothing at the right time.

Wife—My doctor says that sleeping out of doors tends to make one beautiful.

Her Husband—That explains the charming appearance of most tramps.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if the people who have their pictures taken could retain that expression long after the film had been developed.

Mrs. Nosey—You ought to see Mrs. Rankin's chinz-covered bed!

Mrs. Rapper (slightly deaf)—Can't she get rid of them with bug powder!

Most every man really thinks his wife ought to be able to keep the table well loaded with good things, without running up much of a grocery bill.

Arthur—So your new job makes you independent?

Albert—Absolutely. I get here any time I want before eight, and leave when I please after five.

Diner—I can't eat this soup.

Waiter—I'll call the manager.

Diner (when manager arrives)—This soup, I can't eat it.

Manager—I regret that. I'll bring the chef.

Diner (when chef arrives)—I can't eat this soup.

Chef—What's the matter with it.

Diner—Nothing. I have no spoon.

Worrying takes up a whole lot of time. So does work. But work draws down the cash. Worrying is thinking a lot of things that aren't so, about something that will probably never happen. Worrying is like trying to eat the hole in a doughnut—it doesn't do you the least good. You can sit on a red hot stove if you feel like it; and you can worry if you want to. One is just as foolish as the other. Make the best of everything. Think the best of everybody. Hope the best for yourself. It is too late to worry about yesterday, and too soon to worry about tomorrow.

Hal—Ruth has brains enough for two.

Fred—Then why don't you marry her?

Magistrate—You say this man stole your watch. Do I understand that you prefer the charge against him?

Murphy—Well, no, your worship; I prefer the watch, if it's all the same to you.

The pioneer who stepped out in the morning and shot his dinner now has a grandson whose idea of getting back to nature is toasting marshmellows on a stick.

Aggrieved Father—I have spent nearly $20,000 on that girl's education, and here she goes and married a young fellow with an income of only $1,000 a year.

Friend of The Family—Well, that's five per cent on your investment. What more can you expect in these times of depression?

Where a person makes a great mistake in married life is in forgetting how hard it is for somebody else to live with him.

Sooner or later every girl joins the search for a husband and life becomes one big man hunt.

Olive Rebekah Lodge Meeting

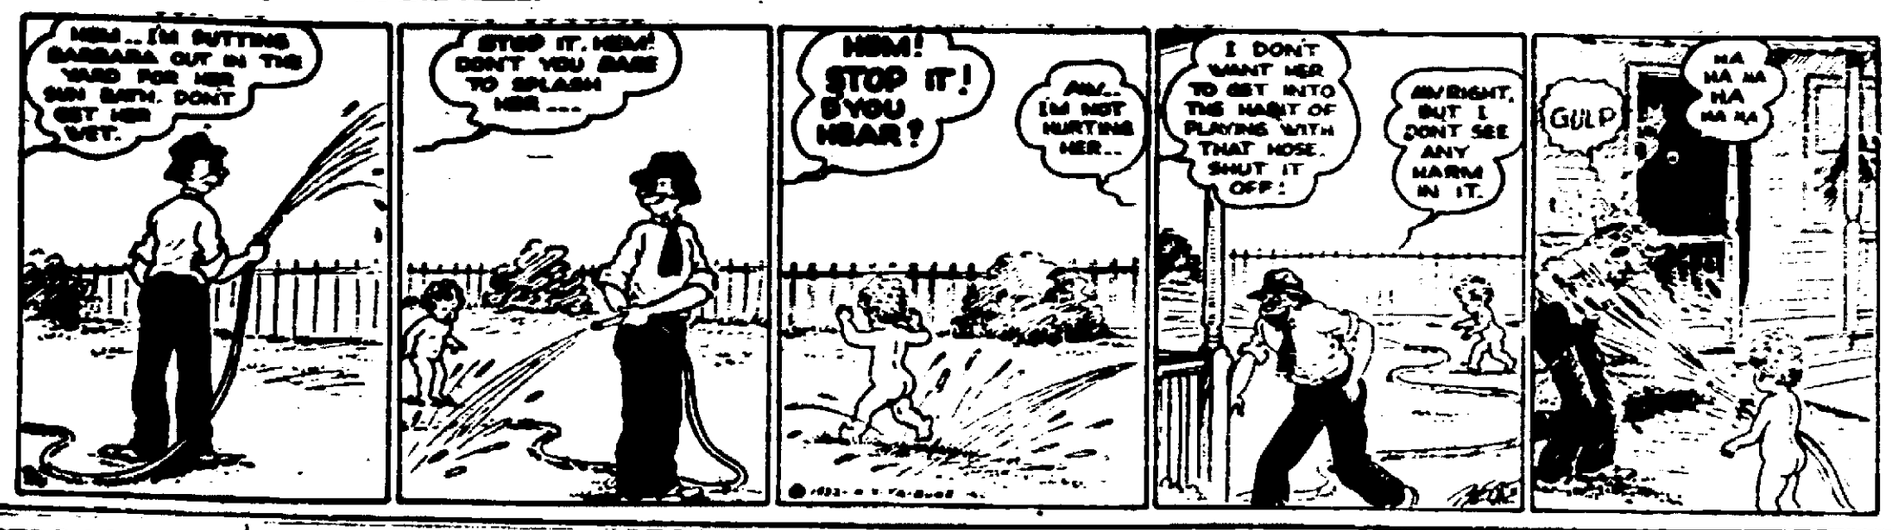
West Shokan, Sept. 14—The regular third Thursday of the month meeting of Olive Rebekah Lodge, No. 470, will be held September 15 at the Olive Bridge I. O. O. F. Lodge hall. A feature will be the electing of officers for the ensuing year. Refreshments and a social hour will follow. Visiting members will receive a cordial welcome.

De Maupassant's Idea

I prefer a pretty woman to all the arts. I put a good dinner, the real dinner, the rare dinner, almost in the same class as a pretty woman.—Guy de Maupassant.

"Taxis to left of us, taxis to right. Taxis for riding in, taxis for fright: Taxis beneath my feet, over my head. I fear I shall find one tonight in my bed."

CAS BUCKEE—Experience is a Great Teacher.



MR. AND MRS. E. C. BURGHER TO GIVE O. E. S. CARD PARTY

West Shokan, Sept. 14—On Monday evening, September 19, a local event of widespread social prominence will take place when Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Burgher, well known summer resort proprietors, will give a card party in the spacious dining hall of their establishment. The proceeds will go for the benefit of Clinton Chapter, O. E. S., of Kingston, of which Mrs. Burgher is prominently identified. This is the third affair of this kind to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Burgher and long since their reputation as first class entertainers has become firmly established afar. There is already assurances advanced that the affair is destined to be no small success. The games will be followed by a menu of sumptuous refreshments.

Masons and Star members with their friends are cordially welcomed to attend and enjoy to full measure the features offered.

The distance is but twenty miles from Kingston and the drive a delightful one, which for the scenic beauty of the reservoir and mountains enroute is unsurpassed. A guide post at the boulevard intersection with the Watson Hollow road at Colange's store will unfailingly point the remainder of the way to any who may be uninformed.

HURLEY.

Hurley, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Angus Rowse is visiting her mother, who is very ill in New York.

John Osterhoudt and daughter Sarah, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Osterhoudt of Mt. Marion called on Charles Snyder and Mrs. Alfred Snyder on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Minard Elmendorf and daughter, Mabel, spent the week-end with relatives at Peach Lake, N. Y.

It has been said that over 200 attended the Lake Minnewaska Christian Endeavor meeting on Sunday evening. Out of that number Hurley was represented with 17. Every one enjoyed the open air meeting and supper overlooking the lake.

The Men's Club met Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the basement of the church. The club has not had any meetings during the summer months, but they will again meet the second Tuesday of each month. Ernest Myer, president of the club, had charge of the meeting. Mr. Thompkins of West Hurley, who has a moving picture machine, showed some reels which the men greatly enjoyed. Next month Ladies' Night will be held; each man bringing his wife or friend. Edward Harford was appointed chef for the ladies' night banquet. Refreshments were enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

As there will be regular church from now on the Sunday school will open again Sunday morning as usual.

Kingston: "The Last Mile." Taken from the stage play of the same name this dramatic thunderbolt has been recreated on the screen with all the force of the original. It is the story of the men who are in the death house of a great prison, awaiting their turn to die. Their thoughts, their actions, their fears and bravado are all forcibly brought before an audience. It isn't an enjoyable bit of entertainment, but it is real and vital in what it attempts to teach. Members of the cast include Howard Phillips, Preston Foster, Noel Madison, and George Stone.

Orpheum: "This is the Night" and "The Wyoming Whirlwind." The first is a gay, frothy talkie, filled with risque situations and many laughs. There are some splendid musical numbers, and the acting of Lily Damita, Thelma Todd, Roland Young and Charles Ruggles is above reproach. "The Wyoming Whirlwind" is effectively played by Lane Chandler, and is a fast moving western melodrama that is above the average in entertainment value.

Broadway: "Back Street" Fannie Hurst's great novel made into a picture of extraordinary fineness. It is well acted and well screened. Irene Dunne as the girl who treads the back streets of life and sacrifices all for her man is splendid, as is John Boles in the role of the young banker for whom the girl sacrifices everything. This is a picture for grown ups and a picture grown ups should see, as it is one of the present best offerings.

Ritz: "Arm of the Law," with Rex Bell, Dorothy Revier, Lina Basquette.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: Same.
Broadway: "New Morals for Old." Myrna Loy, Jean Hersholt, Lewis Stone, Robert Young, Margaret Perry, and Laura Crewes are members of the fine cast in this story of modern youth and the changing customs youth is undergoing in this day and age.
Ritz: Zulieka, Physic-Astrologist and on the screen, "Forbidden Company."

No Money For Juror's Pay

Rensselaer county is now without funds to pay witnesses appearing before the grand jury. On Monday, the Rensselaer county treasurer told jurors who were excused from duty at the opening of the term, that they would have to hold on the slips for one day's pay of $3 until such time as the Board of Supervisors replenished the jurors' account, exhausted by the large trials earlier this year.

Grand Slam of the Series!

THE STORY OF BABE RUTH, RECORD WRECKER

Above is a closeup of the eyes of the greatest slugger the world's series has ever seen. Back in the days when he was a hurler, Babe Ruth's knack of getting his eye on the ball and slapping it out of the lot made it inevitable that he would switch to a job letting him in the lineup every day.

This is the third of ten stories relating the prodigious world's series feats of the one and only Babe Ruth. Nearing the end of his career, the Babe this year will make his tenth and perhaps last appearance in the classic.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

New York, Sept. 14 (AP).—One mighty blow, the first Babe Ruth ever struck in a world's series, turned his baseball career from the pitching mound toward the outfield, headed him in the direction of the New York Yankees, and into such slugging fame as no other ball player ever has known.

It was the fourth inning of the fourth game of the 1918 world's series, and Ruth, in three short years, had become one of baseball's greatest left-handed pitchers. He had tossed back the Cubs in the first game with a brilliant 1-0 shutout and had run his string of scoreless innings in world's series play to 22. The Red Sox led 2 to 1 in games when Ruth started the fourth game.

As the big, lean youngster walked out of the box at the end of the third inning he was still a pitcher, his shutout string intact. Shean walked to start the Red Sox fourth. Strunk flied out to Paskert. Whiteman walked and Stuffy McInnis forced Shean at third.

The Big Moment.

Ruth, still a pitcher, picked up his hitting tool and walked to the plate. Bill Tyler, in grand form, was tossing for the Cubs. It looked as though the uprising was over.

As Tyler whipped a fast curve at the outside corner of the plate, the lanky youngster faced the first great batting crisis in a career of hitting glory flying toward him on the wings of that speeding baseball. The Babe swung cleanly, rhythmically, the ball roared far to right center field. Two runs scored and the triumphant, panting Ruth drew up at third base.

Kissed Hurling Goodbye.

In that brief gallop he left the bulk of a great pitching career behind him. Baseball needed his batting more.

"Bullet" Joe Bush stepped in to relieve the Babe with two on and none out in the ninth after the Cubs scored twice in the eighth to end Ruth's scoreless inning streak at 29, still a record for series play.

Ruth never appeared again as a world's series pitcher. By 1919 he had started his home run splurge with 29 for the Red Sox and a hitting average of .322. That year he was sold to the Yankees for $125,000, the greatest cash purchase in baseball history. He was off in a blaze of batting glory.

Kingston Patrolmen Ready For Saturday Game With Newburgh

The members of the Kingston police force who on Saturday will go to Newburgh under the direction of Sergeant James V. Simpson for a game with the "coppers" from the Hilly City, were scheduled to hold their third practice at the Athletic Field this afternoon and then put the finishing touches on their preparations in a drill Friday.

Despite the fact that some of them were suffering from "charley horses", bruises, sprains, etc. after their first workout, the Kingston blue-coats look in good trim for their battle with Newburgh and hope to come through with a decisive victory.

Saturday's contest will be the first participated in by local police officers in some time. If they come through with a win or even make a good showing after their long absence from competition on the diamond, Sergeant Simpson will have them meet the Newburghers at the Athletic Field or Kingston Fair Grounds in a return match.

Theron Mowers, janitor at the city hall, has presented the Simpsonmen with a baseball bat given to his father, the late Garry Mowers, by that famous character of the national sport, Christie Mathewson, who died several years ago. Theron hopes that the bat, made out of a wagon tongue and in a good state for use, will bring the cops good luck.

The story told about the bat is that it was given to Garry Mowers more than 20 years ago by the great Matty who was in this vicinity with the New York Giants on a barnstorming tour. Mr. Mowers was a driver for the Smith livery on Clinton avenue, situated on the site of the present Stuyvesant Garage, and came in contact with the famous pitcher while driving a coach used by the Giant team.

Officer Freddie Stoudt has his eye on the bat and from the way he has been swinging it around the police lounge at the city hall, contemplates knocking several home runs. Stoudt is slated to pitch for the Kingston policemen with Len Relyea as his battery mate.

The rest of the local lineup will be Winnie Eastrot, 1b; Pete Camp or Pete Kereseman, 2b; Bill Leonard, ss; Ed Leonard, 3b; Urban Healey, rf; Wm Cramer or Ralph Stewart, cf, and Clarence Brophy, lf.

Officer Bill Hess has suggested that Frank Fatum, motorcycle policeman, be taken to Newburgh as pinch hitter as in bygone days he could always be relied upon to belt out a nice long hit when it counted most.

Saugerties Boy Is Matched With Champ

Petey Hayes, bantamweight boxer from Saugerties and Brooklyn, who has had 28 fights, defeating some clever pugilists, is matched with Pete Sanstol, Norwegian champion, for a bout in the near future. The match is Petey's first against a real top-notcher and means a lot to him.

Writing to a friend in this vicinity Hayes said: "I'm training very hard and expect to be in the best form of my career, as I realize that a decisive victory will put me right up there with the leading contenders for the bantamweight title.

"I've had two bouts since I last saw you at Schmeling's training quarters in Greenkill Park and won both of them—one by a kayo. That brings my total number of bouts up to 38."

The number of matches fought by Hayes is considered quite a large one for a boxer who is still considered a youngster by experts.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Jack Sharkey is the heavyweight champion of the world, but you wouldn't guess it by chatting with some of the fistic fans in and around the territory that has seen many a scrapper come and go since the well known tea party.

Go so far, for instance, as to mention Sharkey and John L. Sullivan in the same breath and your taxicab driver is liable to utter a loud protest or even become threatening.

Boston is not a "Sharkey Town," although the champion is one of the local squires and a good substantial citizen in many respects, apart from his erratic record in the ring.

The fact is that Boston, like most big towns in the United States, has lost most of the edge off its interest in professional pugilism, beset as this sport has become with racketeers and fixers within the past ten years.

Red Sox Remember

Babe Ruth's prospective entry into the world's series arena for the tenth time since the days when he was a star left-hander with the Red Sox seems once more to stir the current cup of depression for Boston's American league entry.

But there's no profit-taking in memories nowadays and the magnates will have to effect some manipulation this winter to save the Red Sox from dropping out of sight altogether in a league they once dominated.

The talk that the great Ruth would be sent back to his old stamping grounds to manage the club and revive interest at Fenway Park seems to have faded.

The American league might make it worth while for Colonel Jacob Ruppert to part with his most valuable, even if somewhat axing piece of ivory, but the Red Sox can't do it. The color of their stockings now is the same as the color of the ink on their books.

Always A Weakness

When the Sox had pitching during the last few seasons, they didn't have the hitting. Now they have sockers like Alexander and Jolley, but their pitching has fallen apart again.

Bob Quinn and his forces deserve a better baseball fate than they have had handed to them this year. They will continue in a tough spot until they can muster the strength to escape being beaten to a frazzle each spring by the preponderance of strength in the three other eastern clubs before they (the Sox) have a chance to get started.

Forsts Strengthened Hold on First Place, Defeating Repealers

The Forst Butchers stepped a game closer to the championship of the second half of the City League by defeating the Morgan Repealers, 4 to 2, at the Athletic Field Tuesday evening. The Butchers have two more games to play and need both of them to clinch the honors, while one win will assure them of at least a tie with the Schryver Lumbermen.

Good pitching seems to be the order in the league lately. Not to be outdone by Joyce and Wilson who turned in first-class work in the last two league games, Willard Thomas, Butchers' pitcher, also came through last night with a three-hit affair. He lost control for a brief spell but after an error he probably would have scored a shutout.

Ralph Williams and Pres Knight shared the pitching duties of the Repealers. Williams started and went three innings. He allowed four hits and also the four runs. Knight relieved him in the last inning and set down the Butchers in regular order, fanning two of them.

All the pitchers were stingy with their hits, only seven being made in the game, but of these seven four went for extra bases. Charlie Tiano poled the longest hit, a triple. Glaser, Robins and Morgan connected for doubles. Three of the long-distance hits came in the third inning, when the Butchers scored all their runs.

In this inning Lewis's gave the Butchers a life when he dropped Leski's throw after Davitt hit a grounder. Glaser patterned his double into left field at this time and Davitt dented the rubber. Robins repeated to the same field to send Glaser home and then Tiano manufactured his triple to send Robins in. Johnson, with a long fly to Van Buren, drove in Tiano.

Thomas couldn't locate the plate for Leski in the fourth and passed him. Wojcio hit to Davit, who had an easy double play in front of him, but muffed it, both runners being safe, Leski taking third. Lewis forced Wojcio at second and Leski scored on the play. Van Buren hit a liner over Glaser's head and Lewis brought home the final run of the contest.

Tagging Major League Bases

By GALE TALBOT

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Having salted away the American League pennant, the Yankees could sit back today and watch the progress of the race in the National League and figure out what to buy with their share of the world series receipts.

The Yankees won their right to participate in the world series with yesterday's 9 to 3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. They can lose all their remaining 11 games if they feel so disposed and still finish a lap ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics.

While there still is some semblance of a fight for the National League pennant, the Yankee secret service can feel pretty safe in centering its activities on the Chicago Cubs. Unless all signs fail, the Cubs will be their opponents when the series opens at the Yankee Stadium September 28.

By dividing a double bill with the New York Giants yesterday while Pittsburgh was being washed by Ed Brandt of Boston, the Cubs increased their lead to five and a half games, with 12 to play. A little rapid calculation reveals that they need to win only seven more games to assure themselves a tie with the Pirates and fight to make Chicago's north side supremely happy. However, they probably will get by with fewer victories than that, as the Pirates are not exactly ablaze right now.

George Pipgras, veteran retainer, accepted the honor of pitching yesterday's climatic game for the Yanks. He held the Indians to eight hits and never was in serious trouble, while his mates piled up 16 blows off Clint Brown and George Connally.

The Athletics were idle as the Yanks sewed up the race. The third place Washington Senators were taking a 4 to 1 trimming from the lowly Chicago White Sox. The St. Louis Browns improved the day by whipping Boston's Red Sox, 9 to 4, behind Bump Hadley's five hit pitching.

The Cubs and Giants had a pair of grand tussels at the Polo Grounds, the Chicagos taking the first, 3 to 1, but dropped the nightcap, 3 to 2, in eleven innings.

Home runs by Wally Berger and Bill Urbanski featured the Braves' 3 to 0 win over Pittsburgh. Brandt allowed the Pirates only six hits.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, still clinging to a mathematical chance at the pennant, downed St. Louis, 6 to 5 in 11 innings and 3 to 1. Hollis Thurston outpitched Dizzy Dean in the second.

Chuck Klein hit his 36th home run, a double and a single to help the Phillies crush Cincinnati, 7 to 1.

The Colonial Alleys League Opens Sept. 20

At a special meeting of the Colonial Alleys Bowling League held last night in the meeting rooms of the Schryver Motor Company on North Front street, it was unanimously voted that the league should get under way by Tuesday night, September 20.

Considerable interest has been shown in the league so far. Representatives were present from ten teams, making four teams more than last year. The four new teams, entering the league are as follows: Montgomery Ward, Grand Union, Colonial City Chevrolet and Canfield Supply Company.

Tuesday night, September 20, being the opening night of the league, there are two games scheduled. Rose & Gorman are scheduled to meet Schryver Motor Co. on Alleys 1-2, while on alleys 3-4, the Mohican 1931-32 champions, will meet the Pan-Ams, runners-up for first place last season.

Officers of the league who will carry on this season are as follows: President, Ken Van Etten; vice president, Roy Sickles; secretary, Len Hinkley; treasurer, Ken Van Steenburgh; presiding judge, Gil Sampson.

The complete list of teams in the league is as follows: Mohicans, Pan-Ams, Rose & Gorman, Bakers, Herzogs, Schryver Motor Company, Grand Union, Montgomery Ward, Colonial City Chevrolet and Canfield Supply Company.

Maroon May Open Season Sept. 24

Coach Warren Klas announced this morning that the forward drill work Monticello might be switched from September 3 to Saturday, September 24. That will give Coach Klas just another week besides a few practice days in this city to whip a team into shape.

As it is no steps have been taken to weed out a first string eleven. The first indication of any team formation was shown Tuesday. The boys lined up in punt formation. That's the biggest step towards advanced work that has been shown yet.

Coach Klas stated he would look the boys over carefully and decide whether he could get a team into shape before the week is out. A letter was received from the Monticello athletic officials asking if it would be possible for Kingston to play a night game. Nothing definite was said about changing the date but Coach Klas said today he felt as though he might hear further from them at any time. However until then the earlier arrangements remain the same.

The boys are still being drilled in fundamentals' blocking, tackling, punting, passing, two and one, and one and one drills, drop kicking and place kicking. They will go through the remainder of the week in these lines of training and conditioning.

Tuesday was the first the boys tackled the dummy. Previously they did some light tackling, but now the coach is pressing them hard and watching them closely. The boys have been hitting a good pace in the past week and the many aches they had from their early days of work are now disappearing and a little more ease is being shown.

If the early drills goes through for the game with Monticello Coach Klas will have to begin signal practice next week in order to have them in working order for the struggle. This too, means a first string eleven will have to be selected before many more days go by. Still there should be no great worry for Monticello is not rated very strong on the gridiron and it should be a good opener for the Kingston team.

HELD FOR BURGLARIZING OF LAKE HILL POST OFFICE

Merlin Wilber, 17 years old, of Lake Hill, and Robert Tesseyman of Astoria, L. I., 20 years old, are being held in the Ulster county jail on charges of burglary, third degree. The pair were committed by Justice of the Peace Wallace Shultis of the town of Woodstock.

Wilber and Tesseyman are the two young men charged with having entered the Lake Hill post office on Sunday afternoon and taking a sum of money and money orders. When faced by deputy sheriffs from the sheriff's office and State Troopers the pair confessed to having entered the place and produced the missing money which had been hidden in the vicinity of the Wilber home. After the missing money had been returned the postmaster at Lake Hill did not desire to press the charge against the youths but a charge was made by the county officials and the pair picked up and arraigned before Justice of the Peace Shultis, who held them for the action of the grand jury on a burglary, third degree, charge.

Entrance to the post office building was gained by forcing a rear window.

It is understood that the youths signed a statement after their arrest admitting that they had burglarized the place. Over $100 was recovered from the two lads.

Usual Red Tape

A few weeks ago an official in one department of the civil service made an inquiry about a certain case to a subordinate official in another section, who allowed the matter to slide.

Last week the first official addressed a complaint to the subordinate's superior, and the superior passed on the minute to the subordinate with the query, "Has nothing been done?"

The minute was returned marked "Yes," and was sent back to the subordinate with a laconic "What?"

"Nothing," was the subordinate's comment on the minute.—London Tit-Bits.

Dressed for Dinner

By JANE OSBORN

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. (WNU Service)

WREN BALDWIN felt a species of self-consciousness as he strode into the boarding house dining room that second night of his residence there, dressed in his tuxedo. He assured himself that there was nothing out of the way in his appearance. No one, of course, would know that the reason he was thus formally dressed was because he had but one business suit at present in which, after he had returned from the office a quarter of an hour ago, he had discovered a ripped seam that had made it quite necessary to take it to the tailor for repairs.

The ten boarders at Mrs. Haven's sat at one long table, and to hide any slight embarrassment Wren began to talk of the weather to the prim little old lady who sat next to him.

As he was talking he noticed that Miss Ames cast preoccupied glances across the table and when she could politely turn her attention from him she looked brightly across and said: "Goin' out tonight, Miss Drew?"

"Why, no, Miss Ames," said the girl addressed as Miss Drew. "What made you ask that?"

"Then you are expecting company," announced Miss Ames with the familiarity that she seemed to think living under the same boarding-house roof permitted. Wren Baldwin eating the watery soup before him felt a surprising twang of jealousy. He had noticed this girl—Miss Drew as they called her—that morning in her trim dark business frock and noticed too the lovely gray eyes shaded with dark long lashes.

After dinner the boarders adjourned to the boarding-house parlor and lingered there if for no other reason than to postpone the time of going to their insufficiently heated rooms.

"I suppose you're going out," said the old woman.

"Oh, to be sure," said Wren, remembering the suit at the tailor's and wondering somehow whether Miss Ames knew of his errand there. "I do have to go out for a few minutes later on."

Then a pleasant man of sixty named Brown approached Wren.

"If you weren't going out I'd ask you to make up a table of bridge," he said. "There'd be my wife and I and Miss Drew if we could get a fourth. It's too chilly to go up yet."

"I'll play," said Wren, and then, "only I imagine Miss Drew will have another partner presently."

But apparently Miss Drew had no other partner. The table was opened, Mrs. Brown went upstairs for the cards and the four sat down with Miss Ames constituting an uninvited audience with her chair drawn up between that of Wren and Miss Drew.

So they played, and as they played and no caller arrived for Miss Drew, Wren's jealousy abated, and as it abated his admiration for her increased. All at once he looked at the clock and saw that the hands pointed to half-past nine. He happened to be playing dummy at the time, so without much ceremony about it he rose and made some excuse about having to go out for a few minutes. Then seizing his coat and hat in the hall he hurried around the corner to the tailor shop, the terrifying thought that it might any minute close for the night quickening his steps. Back in the boarding house hall he tucked his suit under his coat and hastened to his room, then back to the card table.

"Did you get what you went after?" asked Miss Ames, and Wren with all the nonchalance he could command said that he did. Then when it was eleven and time to go to bed, Mrs. Brown said that it had been a very nice party, and a very dressed-up party, too, she added significantly. Mr. Brown took his wife's arm on one side and Miss Ames on the other and started for the stairs. "We old folks will go along and let you youngsters put up the table," he said, almost dragging the unwilling Miss Ames with him.

Then over the table Wren felt that he ought to make an explanation—perhaps a complete confession to begin with would be best.

"So that's why I had to hurry out at half-past nine," he finished his explantation. "I would have explained then only that little Miss Ames was so anxious to know—"

Miss Drew laughed delightfully. She explained, too. "I'm terribly poor myself," she said, "but before we lost everything I did dress for dinner and my first position was as a resident social secretary where I was expected to dress. Now I am working in an office, but it seemed so dingy here and I just made up my mind that I'd feel a lot more cheerful if I dressed—as long as I have the old evening dress on hand." Their hands met as they were folding the card table cover and for a few seconds Wren held the girl's in his.

"Please dress again tomorrow night," said Miss Drew. "Just so Miss Ames won't suspect you had a special reason."

"I'll dress for dinner every night," said Wren. "If you want me to. It will give the boarders something to talk about."

But before many months had passed the boarders had more than that to talk about. Wren and Miss Drew were married and went to live in an inexpensive little apartment a few blocks away—where they didn't dress for dinner.

KERHONKSON

Kerhonkson, Sept. 14—The Joy Class of young ladies of the M. E. Church will hold a bazaar at the church on September 21. There will be fancy articles, aprons and home-made candy on sale. There will also be a clam chowder supper served at 5 o'clock, until all are served.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bush of Kingston and Miss Mildred Birch and Herman Germer, Jr., of New York city have been spending a few days with H. Germer, Sr.

Mr. Crum, the new principal, is boarding at the home of Mrs. Nettie Whittaker.

James Anderson, who has been ill for some time, is able to be out again.

Sun and Moon Legends of Primitive Peoples

The natives of the Malay peninsula have an interesting myth which seeks to account for the differences between the day and night sky and also the motions of the sun and moon.

According to this legend, both the sun and the moon are regarded as women, while the stars are the children of the moon. The legend tells that the sun once had as many children as the moon. The children of the sun were bright like the sun itself.

Fearing that the earth could not stand so much light and heat, the sun and moon made an agreement to eat their children. The sun carried out her part of the agreement, but the moon only hid her children.

When the moon's children, the stars, came out at night, the sun was very angry and began to pursue the moon. This accounts for the motions of the sun and moon through the heavens, which the Malay natives regarded as a pursuit of the moon by the sun.

The stars go out as the sun rises. This, the natives say, is because the sun is still devouring her children. But the moon hides her children during the daytime and brings them out at night.

Among the American Indians we find the sun and moon generally regarded as brother and sister.

One legend of the Ottawa Indians tells of two Indians who "sprang through a chasm in the sky and found themselves in a pleasant moonlit land." There they met the moon, who was "an aged woman with white face and pleasing air." She introduced them to her brother, who was the sun.—David Dietz, in the New York World-Telegram.

Even Ordinary Mortal Is Rich in Ancestors

"A pedigree like this is, of course, such as few can claim," says the Canadian Mining Journal, commenting on an article on the subject of heredity. But, with reference to the pedigrees of very ordinary mortals like ourselves, it is interesting to recall that a distinguished legal commentator has estimated that at the fortieth genealogical remove—that is to say, in the course of sixteen or seventeen centuries—the total number of a man's progenitors is more than 1,000,000,000,000.

"'All of us have now subsisting,' wrote the great Blackstone, 'nearly 270,000,000 of cousins in the fifteenth degree; and if this calculation should appear incompatible with the number of inhabitants on the earth, it is because, by intermarriages among the descendants, a hundred or a thousand different relations may be consolidated in one person, or he may be related to us in a hundred or a thousand different ways!'

"What a field of speculation this train of thought opens up! Small wonder that each of us is supposed to have a 'double.'"

Pelican's Big Appetite

It is interesting to see a flock of pelicans on the wing. They usually fly in single file, and when the leader starts or stops flopping his wings the others follow with mechanical precision.

From three to five white chalk-incrusted eggs are laid by the pelican on its crude, bulky nest. Usually not more than two birds are raised. When the chick breaks shell it is black skinned and the long bill already is noticeable. Within a few weeks the bird is downy white and his faint squawking is brought about by a desire for more fish daily. When he is only three weeks old he must have several pounds of fish daily. And when the young pelican reaches his fifth week he displays a ravenous appetite.—Anthony V. Ragusia, in the New York Herald Tribune.

Treasure Lure Strong

Cocos island, in the South Pacific, is again luring gold hunters, notes the Atlanta Journal, referring to expeditions to "that olden haunt of pirates in the South Pacific," in search of "treasure fabled to be worth between $25,000,000 and $75,000,000—a treasure that has long proved a will-o'-the-wisp," according to the Journal. "But," comments this paper, analyzing the persistence of the search, "it isn't the gold merely that these smitten hearts desire; it's the sea wind, the lonely beach, the forest tangle, the very hardship and danger that lift life above humdrum in their foretaste if not in reality. Men will ever be hunters and sailors; and the wilder the chase, the more perilous the voyage, the better they will fancy it.

City of Venice Unique

Venice is at the head of the Adriatic sea, between the mountains and the sea. The whole of the plain has been formed by the debris swept down from the Alps by rivers. In the process of time some of these banks, as in the case of Venice, raised themselves above the level of the water and became the true shore line, while beyond them lay large lagoons formed undoubtedly by fresh water brought down by the rivers and partly by the salt water tide which found its way in at the channels of the river mouths. On a group of these mud banks about the middle of the lagoon stands the city of Venice. The soil is an oozy mud which can only be made suitable for erecting buildings by the artificial means of pile-driving.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Anderson of 119 Highland avenue are celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Anderson is 77 years old and Mr. Anderson, 84.

A farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Healey of Fort Lee, N. J., in honor of Mrs. Healy's nephew, James Murray, of New York city and Port Ewen, who will enter Dunwoodie Seminary to study for the priesthood. Guests included James Murray, Sr., of New York city, Margaret Murray of Port Ewen, Miss Mary Malia, Mr. and Mrs. M. Gillespie and son, Peter, Miss Mollie Cummings of Englewood, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cummings of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keating of Weehawken, Mrs. Ann McCort and daughter, Betty, of Fort Lee, and many others.

Brown-Dower

Leibhardt, Sept. 14—Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Rex Brown, who were married on Monday, September 5, in Greenwich, Conn. The groom is a former Leibhardt young man and the bride was Miss Kathryn Dower of Greenwich, Conn. They have the best wishes from a host of friends and relatives in this vicinity for a long and prosperous married life.

LeFever-Goodwin.

Thursday, September 8, Kenneth H. LeFever, M.D., of Kingston, was married to Helen Pauline Goodwin, of Rochester, N. Y., at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Raymond, at Bronxville. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, D.D., pastor of the groom. After a short wedding trip, Dr. and Mrs. LeFever are at their newly furnished home at 56 Pearl street, where Dr. LeFever has his office and is entering upon a successful practice of his profession.

Mayer-Schoen.

New York, Sept. 13.—(Special)—A marriage license was issued at the Municipal Building here this afternoon to Miss Eleanor Schoen, 24, a former resident of Ellenville, N. Y., now living at 215 East 66th street, New York, and Jesse Joseph Mayer, 24, a chemist of 741 Coster street, New York. They stated they would be married on September 18 in the Zechron Ephraim Temple, New York city. The bride-to-be, who was born in Ellenville, is the daughter of Marcus and Lena Fischer Schoen. Mr. Mayer, the son of Frank and Gizella S. Mayer, was born in New York city.

Butler-Burns.

On Saturday afternoon, September 10, at 2 o'clock, in St. Mary's Church, a very pretty wedding was solemnized when Miss May Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Burns of this city, became the bride of Raymond Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Butler of Gardiner. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William H. Kennedy. Miss Violet Burns was her sister's only attendant. Richard Decker, cousin of the groom, was best man. The bride was attired in a suit of tan and carried a corsage bouquet of pink roses. The maid of honor was dressed in a suit of blue and she carried white roses. The newlyweds will reside in Gardiner, where a furnished home awaits them.

Carle-Wolven

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Sunday, September 11 at 1 p. m., when George C. Carle of Lake Katrine and Marian Wolven of Blue Mountain were united in marriage at their own newly furnished home in Lake Katrine by the Rev. Stephen W. Ryder of the Flatbush Reformed Church. The bride was handsomely attired in a dress of silver blue satin, with silver slippers. In her hair she wore a silver bandeau caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and swansonia. The matron of honor, Mrs. Raymond Felten of Saugerties, wore a gown of pink crepe with silver slippers. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Raymond Felton of Saugerties was best man. Following the ceremony the bridal party accompanied by immediate relatives enjoyed a turkey dinner at Von Berg's restaurant. They will enjoy a motor trip to the northern part of the state. They were the recipients of many handsome and useful gifts.

Osterhaudt-Geis.

Grace Episcopal Church, Jamaica, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Miss Marguerite J. Geis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude T. Geis, of 147-16 115th avenue, Baisley Park, was married to Leonard T. Osterhaudt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Osterhaudt, of Accord, N. Y. The Rev. Joseph H. Titus officiated. A reception for 100 guests was held at the Jamaica Chamber of Commerce Restaurant, 161st street. The bride wore a gown of white Alencon lace with a long train, and a five-yard illusion veil draped from a hand-made lace cap. She carried a prayer book from which lilies-of-the-valley fell in a shower. The maid of honor was Beatrice Clarke of Montclair, N. J. She wore a gown of chartreuse angel skin satin, a brown velvet hat and brown accessories. She carried Talisman roses. The bridesmaids were the Misses Edna Wilkes of the Bronx, and Viola McHugh of Red Bank, cousins of the bride, Mrs. Marguerite Ball of Saugerties, N. Y., the bridegroom's sister, and Miss Lillian Jensen of Jamaica. All wore gowns of beige chiffon, with brown velvet hats and accessories to match and carried Talisman roses. The best man was Irving Dyer of Maplewood, N. J., and the ushers Arthur Whaley of Brooklyn; Dr. Rodney Ball of Saugerties; Lawrence Newbert, of Diehl, N. J., and Victor Schaus of Jamaica. Charlotte Reichgel was soloist. Upon returning from a wedding trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Osterhaudt will reside in Jamaica. Mr. Osterhaudt is a graduate of Rider College, Trenton, N. J.

China Far in Lead

China had her chair legs carved into the cabriole form way back as far as the Wei dynasty, 220-264 A. D. This makes Chippendale's not even a second.

News of Today In Kingston

For some time there has been on display in the window of the Plymouth agency on Broadway near the railroad crossing a bicycle that would make old "Rip Van Winkle" feel at home. It's a peculiar looking thing, those of you who saw it will vouch for that, but interesting.

Many years ago that was known as a racer, a bicycle, and races were really won on it, too. A native of Poughkeepsie, John Van Benschoten, was the rider and owner and still is the owner. This office of the Plymouth agency is just a branch of his extensive business.

So you see Mr. Van Benschoten has been linked with ways of travel for many years. It was back in 1888 when he won the outstanding cross country race. How old he was then is not known, but even after that he continued along these lines of fame and took many leading races held in the country in later years on more modern bicycles. For many years his name was foremost among the leading bike riders of the day.

Mr. Van Benschoten has a scrap book filled with pictures and clippings of his heyday as a rider. He was heralded throughout the country as one of the best and all the newspapers recognized him in a big way.

Today Mr. Van Benschoten is an active man of 70 years or more, well preserved. He stands over six feet in height and weighs over 200 pounds. He is a fine specimen of American manhood, preserved at an age when the body begins to take a downward course.

That reminds us that we had great bicycle riders in Kingston, too. Maybe they met sometime or other. However, our big bet of years ago was Ed Cashin. To this day he wears the marks of stones that buried themselves in his flesh.

Ed is now an elderly man but very active. He, too, is well preserved for a man beyond the bounds of youth.

It proves one thing, that exercise in youth builds up a body that makes old age a pleasure.

Some interesting figures were given the other day by a man who took to counting cars as they passed over the Rondout Creek Bridge on Labor Day.

He sat from 9 o'clock until 11 and counted the cars going south, that is to New York city, and 1,700 was the total for the two hours. Then in the afternoon from 2 o'clock until five he counted cars and the number returning to the city increased tremendously. This gentleman counted 5,473 cars in the three hours he was there.

Kingston is a traffic center. They come from the surrounding country to pass through here to get on the good road for New York. There was such a large number passing over the new concrete stretch that had traffic jams were created at Highland and other places where ferries and bridges existed.

This was somewhat reminiscent of the days before the Rondout Creek Bridge was built. On occasions such as this cars remained in line for hours and sometimes even spent the night there.

Traffic regulations here will have to be remodeled in order to handle efficiently the influx of cars during the holidays. More traffic officers should be given some education as to how to handle traffic. It isn't that they are not good now, but that they could be better.

PLATTEKILL GRANGE TO HOLD COMMUNITY NIGHT

Plattekill, Sept. 14.—Mrs. R. Ward entertained the service and hospitality committee on Wednesday evening.

The committee in charge of school exhibits for the annual Grange Fair met with Mrs. C. Ira Thompson on Friday evening.

The regular meeting of the Grange was held on Saturday evening. The program subject, "Travelogue", was introduced by a roll call of members, responding with an acount of an interesting trip taken this summer. This proved most interesting as the territory covered by those present was far and wide. J. M. Chase gave "Current Events." An original essay on "Nearby Beauty Spots" was given by Mrs. Leander Minard. Mrs. J. M. Chase read "Bruce Barton's Tribute to New York State." "A Trip to Other Countries" was shown in picture and song, enacted by Mrs. Burton Ward, Lolita Scott, Mrs. Edward Hartney, Mrs. E. L. Waite, Hazel Slover, Mabel Tremper, Hazel Lippincott. Music was furnished by the Plattekill Church choir directed by Mrs. H. Hahn. Illustrative song and appropriate costumes made the pageant very effective. The program closed with recitation of Van Dyke's poem, "America For Me", by Bessie Harris.

The regular social dance will be held on Friday evening of this week with the Rainbow Orchestra as entertainers.

Many local Grangers will attend the regular session of Ulster County Pomona Grange to be held in Highland on Friday afternoon and evening.

Plans are being made for the annual Grange Fair to be held on September 30. The rural schools are being invited to make exhibits in competition for cash prizes. A spelling contest will be held and the champion chosen by elimination, each school being entitled to two entrants. A prize speaking contest is being arranged for pupils from 12-18 years of age. Original essays on selected topics will be delivered and judged. In addition to cash awards the winner will [illegible] in the county contest to be held in October. [illegible]

Justice Influenced by Medicine Man's Opinion

Trial by ordeal, with a cup of poison to determine the guilt or innocence of a person accused of theft, witchcraft or other crime, is still prevalent among certain African tribes. In the hall of African ethnology at Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, are exhibited examples of the poison cup and the poisons used in such trials as practiced by the Bambundu people of West Africa.

It is said that the medicine man secretly makes up his own mind in advance of the trial as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, and then controls the result, mixing his concoction of poisonous herbs to produce the effect he desires to justify a certain verdict either way. If the accused suffers from the poison he is adjudged guilty and is either allowed to die of the poison itself or is beaten to death, according to Wilfrid D. Hambly, assistant curator of African ethnology.

If he is innocent this fact is established by his stomach's rejection of the poison and this may be brought about by the medicine man according to the mixture he administers. This is but one of a number of similar ordeals used in the dispensing of what the African tribesmen must accept as justice.

Dog's Brain Not Unlike That of Average Child

The dog piles up his knowledge almost wholly by association of ideas, especially pleasurable associations, and this comes very near to a perception of cause and effect, Sir W. Beach Thomas writes, in the Atlantic Monthly.

He can learn up to about 100 words. He can acquire a strong artistic sense—that is, can tell fine shades of black and gray, and distinguish a very round ellipse from a circle. He can distinguish both separate notes and ranges of notes.

His brain matter behaves very much as a child's, especially in shutting off attention from things that bore him by their unintelligibility, and can so concentrate on things that interest him that all the rest of his mind, and indeed, his other senses, are shut down.

The study of the dog's actual brain has given concrete evidence of how like it is to the mind of the child. Though soon the human mind climbs to heights that tower over the dog's attainment, its loss is permanent if it misses the perceptions proper to its doglike infancy.

Eisteddfod Unique

Over a thousand years have elapsed since King Offa set up his famous dyke for the purpose of keeping the Welsh people in a state of rigid isolation. Offa's dyke still remains. Indeed, in some places it is still of considerable height. But the little race which has been so long confined within its shadows still cherishes its native tongue with an unabating devotion.

The eisteddfod—the oldest of its distinctive institutions—still flourishes under the direction of its archdruid, and has no parallel in any other country on earth.—London Answers.

Jug-Like Hippopotamus

A huge earthenware jug, shaped like a hippopotamus, was recently discovered on the site of what was once the city of Nuzi in Mesopotamia, and is believed to be at least three thousand five hundred years old. Upon the spot where this relic was found there once existed a thriving community at a very early date. In fact the region has been called the "cradle of civilization." Within the area watered by the rivers, there were fertile farmlands which produced rich crops, and fertile meadows. There were cities, too, in which a thriving commerce was carried on.

Musical Conducting

Wagner founded modern conducting, writes Richard Capell in the London Daily Mail. He wrote a little book on the subject which is nearly all a raging denunciation of bad conductors, but which lays down two principles: The conductor's business is (1) to establish the right tempo and (2) to bring out the melody. He also said, "I do not beat the time, for that would make for a stiff performance—I describe it in the air." These sayings really embrace almost the whole matter.

Olympic Winners Honored

While the present-day Olympic games are modeled after the ancient Greek games, there are important differences. The Greek games were really religious festivals, dedicated to Zeus, being manifestations of physical perfection, which the Greeks considered godlike. Therefore, winners of the games became national heroes, their praises were sung by the greatest poets, statues were erected to perpetuate their memory and, in Athens, they were pensioned for life.

Going "Scot Free"

"Scot" is a very old legal term embracing tolls, or taxes, or assessments, and a man was said to pay his scot just as today we would speak of a man paying his rates. Anyone not called upon to pay a certain toll or tax was therefore spoken of as being scot free. The sense of this old term has gradually expanded so that now it is applied to the man who avoids any payment or penalty, whatever its nature.

"Kit" Carson More Than Average Hardy Pioneer

Christopher ("Kit") Carson was born in Madison county, Kentucky, on the day before Christmas in 1809. While he was a baby the family moved to Howard county, Missouri, and he became inured from his cradle days to the pioneer perils and privations. He grew up as a hunter and trapper, and at the age of twenty-four was appointed hunter to Bent's fort, where he remained for eight years and was then engaged as a guide by Fremont in his expedition across the plains and over the mountains.

In 1847 Carson was sent to Washington with dispatches and received an appointment as lieutenant of United States rifles. In 1853 he drove 6,500 sheep over the mountains to California, and on his return to Taos was appointed Indian agent in New Mexico. He was the means of bringing about a number of important treaties between the government and the Indians. During the Civil war he was breveted a brigadier general, and rendered good service to the government in the Indian territory. He died at Fort Lyon, Colo., May 23, 1868.

All Are "Jugglers"

Children in the vicinity of Forty-ninth street and Wentworth avenue were playing croquet.

One boy stood apart from the group and deftly kept three of the wooden balls in the air. The game was forgotten as admiring youngsters crowded about the young juggler.

"Say, you really know how to do that," one of the group remarked, with open mouth. "How did you learn to do it?"

"Oh, I guess I just inherited it," the boy said, still keeping the three balls in the air, "there's a jugular vein in every member of my family."—Indianapolis News.

Highly Important Senses

Books on physiology speak of the very intimate relation between smelling and tasting. Flint's Physiology says that "In the appreciation of delicate shades of flavor, it is well known that olfaction (smell) plays so important a part that it can hardly be separated from gustation (taste). It is undoubtedly true that the delicacy of the sense of taste is impaired when the sense of smell is lost. The experiment of tasting wines blindfolded and with the nostrils plugged, and the partial loss of taste during a severe coryza (cold in the head) are sufficiently familiar illustrations of this."

HOW—

ELECTRICITY PLAYS PART IN ASSEMBLING MATTER.—Matter is built of minute units of positive electricity called protons and equal units of negative electricity called electrons. Ordinarily, these are present in equal numbers, and the electrical character of matter becomes evident only when this equality is disturbed. Aggregates of protons and electrons constitute atoms. The simplest atom, hydrogen, consists of a single proton acting as a nucleus around which one electron is circling; heavier atoms have positively charged nuclei consisting of more protons than electrons; enough additional electrons move in complex patterns about the nucleus to maintain electrical neutrality. There are 92 varieties of atoms, each characterized by the charge on its nucleus. In some substances, atoms exist uncombined; in most, atoms are joined with others forming molecules, as a result of electrical and magnetic forces. Elements consist of molecules containing only one variety of atom; compounds consist of molecules containing several varieties of atoms.

How Irreplaceable Soil Is Being Carried Away

So much has been said and written on the subject of soil erosion, that the menace of this factor to the soil fertility of the country is met with indifference. Some figures gathered in Texas, however, are sufficiently startling to center attention on the problem.

Federal experts carrying on studies of the problem report that in one rain of a few days' duration, more than 100,000,000 tons of fertile soil were washed out of the fields of the "Black Belt." The affected land was not unduly steep, being little more than a gentle slope. One single rain in one morning swept away 22 tons per acre of rich black soil and at least 3,000,000 acres were affected.

The seriousness of the situation is to be seen in the fact that the eroded soil is permanently lost, and the average depth of top soil in this country is about nine inches. The destruction of forests has brought the soil erosion question to the fore, for few, comparatively, have made any effort either through the planting of belts of trees or the construction of terraces to overcome the destructive wash of accumulated waters down slopes during rainstorms.

How We Got "Scratch"

In the days before the carefully marked-out running track of today the starting line was merely a scratch in the ground or turf. It followed that the man who started from that mark became known as the "scratch" man as opposed to those who received a start, says the Montreal Family Herald. Hence, too, the term "scratch race" applied to a contest where all the competitors start level. A similar scratch in the ground in the old boxing ring, up to which the combatants had to stand when starting a fight, gave currency to that other term "coming up to scratch."

How Sail Fish Was Named

The sail fish takes its name from the fact that its dorsal fin is high and undivided. A variety of this species rather common in the vicinity of the Florida Keys grows to a length of six feet. Its great blue "sail" with black dots presents a striking appearance. In addition to their distinctive sail-like dorsal fins the sail fishes are characterized by their brilliant metallic coloration and by the fact that their upper jaws are prolonged into bony swords. They are excellent food fishes.

How to Waterproof Paper

The bureau of standards says that there is a large number of methods in use for rendering paper moisture-resistant; among the methods applicable to printed papers are coating with clear varnish or lacquer, immersing in a bath of paraffin or oil, surface sizing with glue and hardening with formaldehyde, or parchmentizing by passing through a bath of zinc chloride or sulphuric acid and subsequently washing and drying.

How Earth Rotates

Due to a deflecting force arising from the earth's rotation, all natural moving bodies—such as cyclones and water draining from a funnel, whirl toward the right in the northern hemisphere and toward the left in the southern hemisphere.—Collier's Weekly.

How to Kill "Wrigglers"

Wrigglers in cisterns may be gotten rid of by adding a small amount of powdered alum dissolved in hot water. If the wrigglers are bad, as much as one-fourth of a pound of alum may be added for every 30 barrels of water.

How Bee Makes "Hum"

The humming noise made by bees is produced by the rapid vibration of the wings. Bees do not make a noise with their mouths, as often supposed.

How Pyrite Got Name

The mineral pyrite got its name from a Greek word meaning fire, because sparks are produced when pyrite is struck with iron.

How Petroleum Occurs

Petroleum occurs in certain porous layers of the earth's crust, just in the same way that water collects in porous sandstones.

Colonial China

One of the initial attempts to make fine china in the Colonies was in 1769 at the Philadelphia pottery works run by Gousse Bonnin and George Anthony Morris. Here artificial porcelain or bone china and cream-colored queensware was produced.

Police To Play For Welfare Fund

Patrolman Peter Keresman, contact man for Sergeant James V. Simpson, manager of the Kingston Police Department baseball team, late today announced that the local minions of the law would play a return game with the Newburgh bluecoats in Kingston on Saturday afternoon, September 24, for the benefit of the local aid committee.

The first contest between the Kingston and Newburgh patrolmen will be played at Newburgh this Saturday afternoon, and according to indications should be well worth seeing. Likewise, the second battle between the "coppers" should present plenty of thrills.

In announcing that the patrolmen would play for the aid committee, of which Mrs. Frederick Snyder is chairman, Officer Keresman expressed the delight of the police at being able to lend their assistance and their wish to cooperate with the committee in every measure.

The sale of tickets for the benefit game will afford all a chance to help the aid committee which is interested in clothing needy school children. They will be offered at a moderate price in the near future.

LIPGAR IS SCHMELING'S OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPHER.

A. H. Lipgar, proprietor of the Lipgar Studio on Fair street, who was official photographer for the Schmeling training camp at Greenkill, is still official photographer for the former heavyweight champ. He traveled to Speculator last week and took several "shots" of Schmeling to be made into personal portraits of him. The order for prints received after Schmeling had seen the proofs is one of the largest ever handled locally. The order will require about 5,000 prints in various sizes.

Mr. Lipgar has been selected by both Schmeling and his manager, Joe Jacobs, as official photographer for Schmeling regardless of his location in a training camp.

KINGSTON TENNIS CLUB TO PLAY WEST POINT

The Kingston Tennis Club is scheduled to play a practice match with the varsity tennis team of West Point Saturday afternoon, September 17. Two years ago when the two teams met, the Kingston players won every match with the exception of one. This year the West Point team possesses a lot of strength, and defeated the Poughkeepsie Tennis Club last Saturday with little effort. The Kingston team will be composed of Randall Rose, Robert Herzog, Stan Hancock, Ed Strong, Bob Hancock, and Jesse Baker.
